Queen Troops Guard Colors

LONDON (UP)—Queen Elizabeth officially turned 31 years of age today with a brilliant state ceremony marking the most momentous year on the throne.

Wearing a colonel's army uniform and sitting erect on her horse, Elizabeth paraded before an estimated 250,000 persons in the glorious "trooping of the colors." It was her last full-dress function before her visit this fall to the United States and Canada.

The Queen's blue riding skirt was draped carefully over her crossed legs. Her tunic of almost blood red was slashed by vivid blue riband of the Order of the Garter. She wore a green tricorn hat, adorned by a feather plume and so chic as to excite murmurs of admiration from women spectators.

Behind the Queen rode her husband, Prince Philip, as colonel of the Welsh Guards, and her uncle, the Duke of Gloucester, also as Colonel. Both were in full guardsmen's regalia and wore the tall bearskin hats. Both wore the Garter riband.

Prince Charles and Princess Anne watched entranced from their vantage point as their mother carried out her part of the ceremony with dignity and precision.

IRISH TUNES. A massed guardsmen's band of 250 ran through a sprightly selection of Irish tunes while the Queen guided her mount along the lines of guardsmen during the inspection.

The trooping of the colors came next.

Hours before the colorful ceremony, thousands of persons crowded the sidewalks outside of Buckingham Palace along the Mall to the Admiralty Arch and the Horse Guards parade grounds. Many were there from dawn, carrying huge picnic lunches.

It was a glorious summer day. The temperature was in the 70s and the skies cloudy. The Queen actually turned 31 last April 21. But June is the month of good weather in London, so officially every ruler's birthday falls in June.

Sweep Suez for Mines

SUEZ (UP)—Authorities closed the port of Suez for five hours and swept the area for mines today to guard against a repetition of Wednesday's mishap in which a strayed mine damaged the Niranjan tanker World Jury.

Ships were not allowed to dock, but they were permitted to enter the 101-mile waterway.

MP-Elect Stricken

SASKATOON (CP)—J. H. Jack Harrison, re-elected as a Liberal candidate in Monday's federal general election, was flown to Saskatoon today after suffering a heart attack in his Meadow Lake, Sask., hotel room.

Queen Criticized

LONDON (UP)—The League Against Cruel Sports complained today that Queen Elizabeth failed to include animal welfare workers in her birthday honors list.

CCF Heads to Meet

OTTAWA (BUP)—The CCF party will hold a national executive meeting Friday at Woodsworth House in Toronto, party headquarters announced Wednesday.

Party leader M. J. Coldwell, national chairman David Lewis and national secretary Lorne Ingall will be among those on hand.

Diesel Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—The Kellogg royal commission investigating the CPR diesel dispute announced today it will study rail operations in France, Switzerland, the Netherlands and the United Kingdom during August.

All-Day Cabinet Meeting Deciding Resignation Time

Prime Minister Keeps Silence On Discussions

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet met for 2½ hours today and Prime Minister St. Laurent announced it will sit again this afternoon.

He told reporters he didn't know how long the afternoon session would last.

A reporter asked whether he knew who would represent Canada at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London June 26.

"I can't tell," Mr. St. Laurent replied.

As reporters' questioning persisted Mr. St. Laurent turned and replied:

"You know there are others just as interested as you are in what is being discussed in the present situation."

DOES NOT KNOW

He said he didn't know whether it would take his ministers as long to make up their minds as some reporters would. He did not elaborate.

As Mr. St. Laurent emerged from the morning session a battery of cameramen converged on him.

"Haven't you had enough pictures in the last few days?" he asked.

It was understood that the key question being discussed at the cabinet meeting was whether the Liberal administration should resign and when such a step should be taken.

As cabinet ministers filed out of the cabinet chamber, Agriculture Minister Gardiner smiled and remarked: "There's pretty near as big a gang here as we got votes."

MINISTERS APPLAUSED

As each of the ministers walked through the corridors of the East Block where the meeting took place, a knot of persons, apparently civil servants emerging from offices, gave them round of applause.

The meeting started at 9 a.m. MDT. Mr. St. Laurent told re-

'GOING TO GET THERE', SAYS TORY LEADER

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—John Diefenbaker scurried about Prince Albert today tidying up his private affairs preparatory to leaving for Ottawa for a conference with Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The Progressive Conservative leader, whose party emerged from Monday's general election with the greatest number of seats in parliament but without an overall majority, said: "I don't know how I'm going to get there, but I'm going to get there."

porters he did not anticipate making any statement after the meeting.

Some ministers who gathered early outside the cabinet chamber said they were frankly confused by what happened in Monday's election when John Diefenbaker's Conservatives smashed the Liberals' 22-year numerical superiority in the Commons.

LOOKS FOR JOB

Revenue Minister McCann, 70, said he didn't know what happened, but he is "looking for a job."

A doctor by profession, the former member for Renfrew South said he would not go back to medicine, "but I've got to make a living."

Trade Minister Howe, 71, said his political career has ended.

Howe Quits Politics, Says 'Yes, I'm Happy'

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe, defeated in Port Arthur, today announced the end of his political career.

"I'm a retired politician," the 71-year-old minister told reporters before entering a cabinet meeting.

"Are you happy?" a reporter asked.

"Yes, I'm happy," said Mr. Howe, beaten Monday by schoolteacher Douglas Fisher of the CCF. Mr. Howe had held Port Arthur riding for 22 years. He had been a member of the cabinet for all that time.

Mr. Howe has been chief lieutenant to Prime Minister St. Laurent, whose Liberal government was defeated in Monday's general election.

Born in Walham, Mass., Mr. Howe came to Canada as a young engineer in 1908 and had amassed a fortune before he was 40.

He entered politics in 1935 and became the hard-driving commander of key government departments. He has been minister of railways and canals, marine, transport, munitions and supply, reconstruction and supply, trade and commerce and defence production.

His part in this dispute confirmed his reputation as one of the most controversial figures in Canada. Some of his phrases, like "what's a million?" and "who's to stop us?" became household expressions which his political opponents never ceased to turn against him.

Ottawa Switch Hits B.C. Hydro

By PETER MURRAY
Times Legislative Reporter

The confused picture surrounding future development of Columbia River hydro in B.C. has taken on a new complexion with the prospect of a federal Conservative government.

The offer of financial aid made in March by the St. Laurent administration presumably is not still in effect.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett never accepted the offer and nothing was put down in writing.

On the basis of their campaign pledges, the Conservatives are expected, however, to seek a new agreement with the province.

Party leader John Diefenbaker told a press conference in Victoria he would call a federal-provincial conference immediately after taking office to iron out the details.

Mr. Diefenbaker accused the Liberals of "playing around" with the hydro issue, and promised his party would proceed in a spirit of "co-operation" with B.C.

Conservative policy on the Columbia was enunciated in the May edition of the Conservative Clarion by party elder Leon J. Ladner, with the approval of Mr. Diefenbaker.

Key points made by Mr. Ladner:

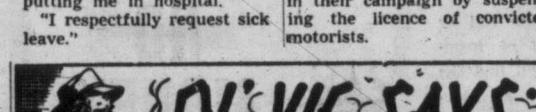

"It seems reasonable that dams built in Canada should be built by the federal and provincial governments in whole-hearted co-operation, and that the benefits to (the U.S.) resulting in flood control, irrigation and he was defeated in Port Arthur by CCFer Douglas Fisher.

Mines Minister Prudham, who announced his resignation before Monday's election, said the vote marked the end of Social Credit as a national party.

TWO-PARTY SYSTEM

"We're getting back to the two-party system and that's a mighty good thing. I think the Conservatives have gone a long way to establish themselves as a national party."

Resources Minister Lesage, re-elected, said he was "pretty well but broken" by Monday's results. The Conservatives got 110 seats in the 265-seat Commons; the Liberals 103; CCF 26; Social Credit 19.

CONCERNED ABOUT UNITY

He was concerned, he said, over what the vote will do to national unity.

CONFIDENT OF COMEBACK

Defence Minister Campbell, defeated in Vancouver Centre, said he was confident the Liberals would make a comeback. Something similar had developed in 1925-26 when former prime minister Mackenzie King, with a minority government, was defeated by the Conservatives in Parliament. The Conservatives took over for a year and in a general election that followed in 1926, Mr. King was returned to power for four years.

The question of a possible coalition with a minority party may arise at the meeting. However, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said he never was in favor of coalition.

If the government resigns, Governor-General Massey may ask John Diefenbaker to form the next government in a day or two. It would be the first Conservative government in 22 years.

SEE FALL ELECTION

As prime minister, Mr. Diefenbaker could either call an election on his own in the hope of increasing his party's strength or he could face Parliament until his minority government was forced to the polls by the combined numbers of opposition groups.

The Conservatives won 110 seats in the 265-seat Commons while the Liberals took 103, the CCF 26 and Social Credit 19.

By-Election Dates Still Undecided

Premier Bennett said today he has given "no thought" to the timing of three provincial by-elections that must be held this year.

"I think the people of B.C. have had enough elections for a while," he said.

The premier said he hasn't decided whether the three by-elections will be held at the same time in a "little provincial election."

One of them in Burnaby to fill the seat left vacant by the death last January of CCFer Ernest Winch, must be held by September under provincial statute.

The other by-elections are in Cariboo and Delta.

Cariboo was made vacant by the death of Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd in April, and Delta by the resignation of Speaker Thomas Irwin to contest the federal election.

land reclamation, should be paid for in a reasonable way so that the costs of the dams and maintenance will be provided for on a long-term basis."

(This is the same stand insisted upon by the Liberal administration).

"Under no circumstances should our heritage in hydro resources be alienated," Mr. Ladner said.

WILL CO-OPERATE

The federal government should and a Conservative government will, co-operate with the provinces to help in the financing without any conditions or strings other than those that are normally applicable to sound business practices in financing.

"A Conservative government will not aim to own these works. The Columbia River is not the property of the Dominion government, it belongs to British Columbia."

"Our party will join with the province of British Columbia in a policy of joint or other sound financing assistance in the normal businesslike way. We will co-operate, not dictate."

Mr. Ladner added that before the terms of financing between the two governments can be arrived at, results of the present engineering studies will have to be known.

BENNETT HELPED

One thing is sure—the imminent change of governments in Ottawa will allow Premier Bennett to save face.

He had been put on the spot by Fisheries Minister James Sinclair's announcement that his government was prepared to participate in construction of dams and generators on the Columbia if the province decided on public power development.

Trade Minister C. D. Howe said later the government would also consider some form of financial aid if private industry was given the job of harnessing the Columbia.

Premier Bennett has never said whether he favors public or private power.

He replied to Mr. Sinclair

MODERN-DAY PILGRIMS LAND AT ROCK

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Mayflower II, replica of the original pilgrim ship, ended her long voyage from Plymouth, England, today.

She entered the harbor shortly after 9 a.m. EDT, towed by a U.S. Coast Guard craft and surrounded by a fleet of yachts and other small craft.

Skipper Alan Villiers had furled sails just outside the harbor before attempting the narrow channel up to the mooring basin prepared for Mayflower off historic Plymouth Rock.

Mayflower's arrival marked the end of a 5,000-mile, 54-day voyage re-enacting the historic trip of the pilgrims in 1620.

Kuwaity Meets Nasser On Diplomatic Crisis

By United Press

Syrian President Shukri El Kuwaity conferred today in Cairo with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser on the Egyptian-Jordanian diplomatic crisis that has shaken the Arab world.

Kuwaity flew to Cairo from a hospital in Alexandria for urgent talks a few hours after the Jordanian government officially accused Egypt of plotting to assassinate members of the Jordanian royal family and government.

The meeting highlighted a series of Middle East developments including:

—Egypt closed the port of Suez today so minesweepers could remove any mines that might lie in the waterway. The Greek-owned tanker World Jury struck a mine in the harbor yesterday and received "slight" damages.

—Lebanon and Soviet relations chilled further with official Lebanese accusations that Russia had interfered in the

New French Cabinet Named

PARIS (Reuters) — France's new premier, Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, today presented his cabinet list to President Rene Coty for approval amid predictions that his reign in office will be short.

"A stopgap until the fall" was the phrase bandied about by deputies in the National Assembly late Wednesday night when the 42-year-old radical leader received a narrow majority in favor of his investiture.

The vote was 240 to 194, a majority of 46. It was the slimdest majority any premier-designate has received since the founding of the Fourth Republic in 1947.

The midnight ballot ended

about by the resignation of Socialist Guy Mollet. Bourges-Maunoury is France's 23rd premier since the war. The wartime resistance hero promised in his investiture speech that France would have 18 months of austerity, along with total war in Algeria, if he were accepted as premier.

Soldiers Sterilized By Tank Experiment

RADIOACTIVITY IN CANADA BOOSTED SLIGHTLY BY TESTS

OTTAWA (CP)—Fallout in the last year from nuclear test explosions has increased the level of radioactivity in Canada by a slight amount.

The increase was disclosed during recent investigations by the federal health department of calcium-containing materials such as human and animal bone and dried milk samples.

Health authorities here say that, from existing knowledge of low-level radiation effects on humans, this slight increase is not cause for undue apprehension.

However, they are aware of concern about radiation dangers and are being fully informed of new findings.

West Arms Proposal Rejected by Russians

'Screen to Mask Arms Race Plans' Krushchev Tells Press Conference

HELSINKI (AP)—Nikita Krushchev today rejected Western proposals for control of disarmament and nuclear weapon production as a "screen to mask plans to continue the arms race."

However, the Soviet Communist party chief told a press conference that the Soviet Union would agree to the establishment of international inspection posts in the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and other countries if this would facilitate agreement on the banning of nuclear tests.

Krushchev's remarks, made in answer to a reporter's question, indicated a stiffening of the Soviet attitude on disarmament. Western delegates to the current negotiations in London of the United Nations disarmament sub-committee had indicated that the Russians there were showing signs of wanting to reach at least a limited agreement with the West.

The Russian proposal for inspec-

The People's Will

ACCORDING TO THE CONSTITUTION Mr. St. Laurent is entitled to meet Parliament and seek its verdict on his Government. But according to the will of the Canadian people his only proper course is to resign at once and advise the Governor-General to call on Mr. Diefenbaker to form a new Government.

To be sure, more Canadians voted for the Liberal Party than for the Conservative Party but the popular vote does not necessarily determine the choice of government under our system. That choice can be made only by Parliament, reflecting the general will of the people.

Clearly the new Parliament and the people do not have confidence in the St. Laurent Government. Both Parliament and people desire a new government and they must have it.

If Mr. St. Laurent were to continue in office, meet Parliament and attempt to make some deal with the splinter parties at the price of surrendering the Government's principles, he would antagonize the nation and further damage the defeated Liberal Party.

This is so obvious and Mr. St. Laurent is man of such scrupulous integrity that his early resignation may be expected. Mr. Diefenbaker should be in office during the next few days. And no doubt another election will be called not long hence to erect a government with a working majority.

Mr. St. Laurent must also consider the future of the Liberal Party.

A great national party outlives its defeats and should profit by them in the long run. Its purpose is not primarily to hold office but to advocate certain policies until the nation is ready to adopt them.

Twenty-two years of opposition and five electoral defeats did not destroy the Conservative Party but slowly prepared it for the success of the recent election. One defeat does not destroy, and it need not damage the Liberal Party in the long run.

On the contrary, this lesson, though unexpected and bitter for the moment, will make the Liberal Party re-assess its position, realize its mistakes and prepare itself, in opposition, for the day when it will return to power.

A period of opposition certainly lies ahead and it will be long or short, depending on the qualities of the Diefenbaker Government and the Liberal Party.

The real danger to the Liberal Party is not a period of opposition which, properly used, can serve to re-build its strength. The real danger, as clearly revealed in the new leader should offer no difficulty whatever. The events of recent years have produced in Mr. Pearson a natural, obvious and brilliant leader, the Canadian statesman most respected throughout the world.

If it has learned its lesson, the Liberal Party should react immediately, call a convention during the summer and make sure that Mr. Pearson has time to prepare for the expected autumn election.

He may be unable to win that election, the tide having set against the Liberal Party for the present, but defeat would be only an incident in his career, the leadership of the opposition would then be in able hands and he would be ready for office after this necessary preparation.

Perhaps Mr. Pearson, who can command great positions and rich rewards in private life, would prefer personally to abandon politics but we believe that the whole nation, regardless of partisan lines, will hope that his unique talents will not be lost to its service. His greatest service still lies ahead.

The Mayflower Comes Across

THE MAYFLOWER II, REPLICA of the ship which brought the Pilgrims to the New World, has completed its Atlantic crossing and is receiving a welcome worthy of the spirit which inspired its construction and journey.

The project has captured the imagination of the Anglo-Saxon world and stands as a monument to the close ties existing between the peoples of the leading nation in the free world and those of the country from which their forebears came.

This is a heartening if somewhat anomalous gesture. The original Pilgrims left England because it seemed desirable to them to quit their homeland. The part they and their descendants played in the creation of a new nation is history. That history is revived this year to illustrate the ties which still exist.

Rebuilding Britain's Confidence

ONLY A FEW WEEKS AGO Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan appeared in deep trouble.

Piled atop the woes of Suez were serious domestic problems. Strikes and prospects of strikes threatened a weakened national economy. Politically, Labor was making inroads into Tory strongholds, and Lord Salisbury, the man who recommended Macmillan as Sir Anthony Eden's successor, left the Government over the release of Cypriot Archbishop Makarios.

Today Prime Minister Macmillan still has problems to face, both economic and political. He has to establish his position in the country at large. Sharp by-election rebuffs in former Tory strongholds indicate that the successes he has achieved in Whitehall and Westminster are not yet reflected throughout Britain.

But Mr. Macmillan has made gains. He has impressed his party supporters with his own confidence, has taken hold of his job and has pulled his government together.

His recent strong stand on trade with China indicates, as do other of his actions, the courage he brings to leadership.

The team about him is doing its part. Minister of Labor Iain Macleod has succeeded in averting, solving or postponing strikes.

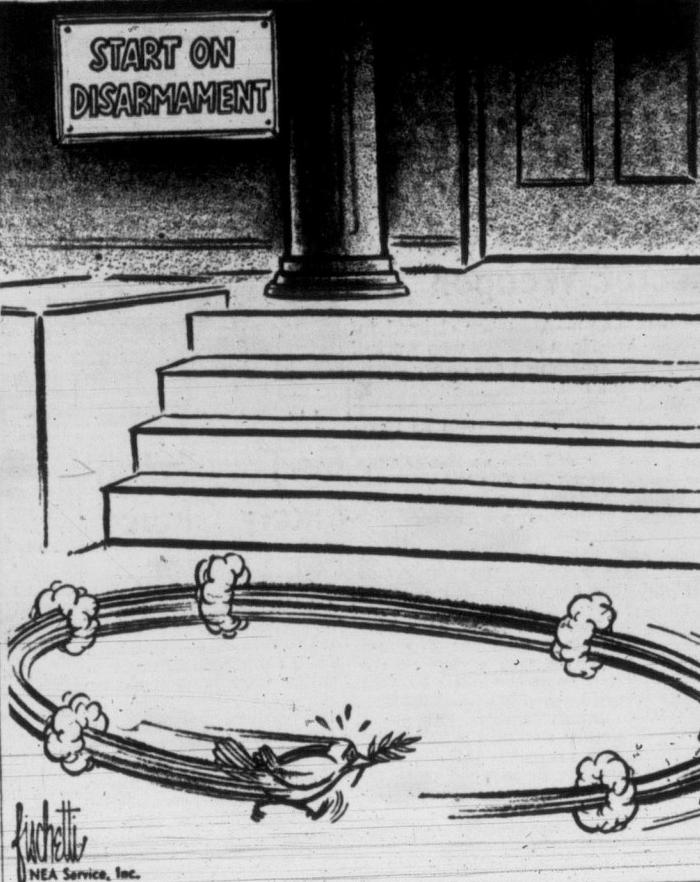

Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft has produced a moderately popular budget with the promise of a more popular one next year when elections approach.

And the Opposition Leader, Mr. Hugh Gaitskell, has not been making many yards politically in a game where Aneurin Bevan seems to be carrying the ball for Labor.

Mr. Macmillan shows no complacency. He has no occasion to. On the other hand his confidence and his leadership are infectious. The government and party apparently headed for disaster in the sands of Suez seem now to be making a remarkable recovery.

If history suggests that events produce the man to master them, Mr. Macmillan seems to furnish supporting evidence.

LOOSE ENDS

Crystal Balls for Sale

ON THE morning of election day—prompted no doubt by some deep, psychic warning—I paused at the barber shop down the street for a hair cut, in preparation for the night's formidable events. As it turned out, I had come to the right place, though I didn't realize it then.

For that barber shop was the only place in the nation, I feel sure, where the truth about the election could be ascertained in advance. The barber, a gentleman who makes no pretence of political erudition, told me flatly that the St. Laurent Government was ruined, though he evidently intended to vote for it. I remarked that the Gallup Poll did not indicate that ruin but, on the contrary, the Government's re-election.

Nonsense, said the barber. What, he asked, did the poll takers know? Nothing. Anyone but an expert, he added, could see that the Government was ruined. Nothing could stop the tide.

That man, who has never studied a book of political history or even seen Parliament, was the wisest prophet in the land. He had felt by instinct what the professional prophets had failed to see with all their knowledge. He had revived, single-handed, the great and ancient tradition of the barber shop as the centre, pulse and pivot of democracy, the true cross-road of the social system.

So far as I know, the barber was the only reliable prophet in the nation. It is all too easy in these days to point to the divergence in interests shown by British and United States foreign policies. Too often the differences are emphasized—as in the case of Suez. It is good to learn of the Mayflower II's successful adventure, to know the inspiration it has given to Englishmen and Americans alike, to see in it a basic association which still exists despite differing viewpoints.

The Atlantic crossing in itself is high adventure in such a ship. Symbolically it is infinitely more—a reassertion of those ideals which two people share, a re-emphasizing of similarities and friendships at a time when differences and animosities are frequently and unfortunately underscored.

The Conservative prophets were a little better, but not much. If any man among them believed that their party could win the largest group in Parliament I have not heard of him. If any man, except my barber, knew what was coming he kept remarkably quiet; and no one, of course, listened to my barber.

THE Liberal prophets, next to Mr. Bennett, proved to be the champion wrong-guessers. They really and truly believed—not just for publication but in their secret hearts—that the Government would lose a few seats but was invulnerable. And it was that belief mainly, and the smug merriment accompanying it, that finally assured the Government's ruin, if any extra assurance was needed.

The Conservative prophets were a little better, but not much. If any man among them believed that their party could win the largest group in Parliament I have not heard of him. If any man, except my barber, knew what was coming he kept remarkably quiet; and no one, of course, listened to my barber.

June 13, 1897—The U.S. bark Melrose, Capt. Peterson, is at anchor in the Royal Roads, having arrived yesterday from Santa Rosalie. She will load pit props at Salt Spring Island for an early departure.

June 13, 1917—Plans for collection of the tax on amusement tickets are being worked out by Finance Minister John Hart, the deputy provincial secretary and the moving picture censor. The latter will administer the act.

June 13, 1937—Efforts will be made by the city's 75th anniversary committee and Esquimalt naval authorities to have HMS Exeter remain on this coast for the big military tattoo at Macdonald Park on Aug. 2 and 3.

Were You Missed?

The members of the Solarium Junior League would like to thank the residents of Greater Victoria for the wonderful support they gave to the recent one-hour fund raising drive in aid of the crippled children at the Queen Alexandra Solarium, Mill Bay, Vancouver Island.

This drive was organized by the members of the Solarium Junior League without any professional help or advice and, as the only expenses incurred for printing of collection envelopes, receipt books, telephones, etc., did not exceed $400, we are very pleased to announce that the total collected was $20,500.

The 48 members of the Solarium Junior League, which consists of business women and mothers of young children, undertook a fund-raising drive of this nature for the first time and each member did her utmost to have all streets in her allotted district canvassed. However, due to several last-minute cancellations, it is regretted that some homes were not called upon. It would therefore be very much appreciated if any citizens who wish to contribute to this very worthwhile cause would send their donation to the Solarium Junior League, 125 Yarrow Building, Victoria, B.C.

At this time, we would like to thank sincerely the many canvassers who so willingly gave of their time to help make this drive such a financial success. Without their help, our drive could never have been undertaken.

A very special thank you is extended to the members of the Quarter Miles Car Club, who, without any remuneration at all, drove their own cars to all sections of the city to pick up collections and receipt books. Their unselfish attitude of these young healthful teenagers is certainly worth very favorable comment.

MARGARET MUNN,
Vice-President,
Solarium Junior League.

Misinterpreted

I have not had occasion before to write to the press with reference to any published quotation purporting to emanate from my lips, but I must take exception to your story about "Fascism" in youth police in reference to the newly formed National Youth Club.

Your church reporter, Miss Kerr, in a telephone conversation asked several general questions about teenagers and youth clubs and more specifically about the local club.

I informed her that it was impossible for me to make any categorical reference to the methods of policing adopted by this local club because I knew nothing about it. In my conversation I hoped that the club would have the co-operation and advice of the Victoria police and made the general comment that without proper supervision abuses could occur.

It was not my intention—not should it have been set forth as such—to charge that the National Youth Club could be criticized on these grounds.

As a matter of fact, I wish them well and offer any services I can give to advance their work amongst our teenagers.

Helping Youth

I along with other adults and parents attended the National Youth Club meeting at the Plaza Theatre Sunday last and it was indeed refreshing to see the youth of Victoria out to help themselves with such a rational and common sense program.

Offers of help with moral and financial support are pouring in and it would appear that a way has been found to a great extent to overcome the so-called "youth problem." I have thoroughly studied the impressive constitution they have which thoroughly covers all angles of their proposed activities.

C. R. Watling and the executive should be commended by all citizens and organizations for their work.

Enough has been said in the past about youth, some of it not too complimentary. Now is the opportunity to help the young people help themselves. Why not take this up as a Centennial project for Greater Victoria? The area this branch covers is 15 miles and of course endeavours are being made to make the movement nation-wide.

Misuse of Worship

Two recent letters in the Times are noteworthy: one expressing fear of nuclear bomb tests; and urging orthodox religious leaders to do something about it; the other suggesting that the religion of "real" humanism is the remedy for "this battered old world."

Remembering that religion is a form or system of worship, and that the Creator implanted in man the urge to worship, to be directed exclusively to Him, the root of the present fear—inspiring condition of the old world or system of things, is definitely man's misuse of worship.

The rivalry of divisive religions is the desire of religionists to claim the credit for patching-up the present system of things which is to be destroyed, not patched-up; answering the prayer "Let your Kingdom come, let your will come to pass as in heaven, also upon earth."

'She's a Lady'

News from the United Kingdom that the Royal Navy will guard cargoes going to the mainland of China recalls a poem written by Rudyard Kipling in 1894, over sixty years ago but as true today as it was then. Here are two verses:

The Liner she's a lady, an' if a war should come,
The Man-o'-War's 'er 'usband, an' 'e'd bid 'er stay at 'ome:
But, oh, the little cargo-boats that fill with every tide!
'E d 'ave to 'up an' fight for them, for they are England's pride.
The Liner she's a lady, but if she wasn't made
There still would be the cargo-boats for 'ome an' foreign trade.
The Man-o'-War's 'er 'usband, but if we wasn't 'ere 'E wouldn't 'ave to fight at all for 'ome an' friends so dear!

No Basis for Comparison

Your correspondent's (J. G. Jenkins) attempted comparison of the efforts of the "British version of the CCP" with the Canadian CCF completely fails to take into account the tremendous economic differences of the two countries.

Whilst I am in no way expressing any political opinion, it is a fallacy to try to compare the efforts of any government trying to restore a desperately weak economic condition brought about by a total war effort as existed in England, and that existing in Canada today.

The alleged lowering of living standards in England did not take place as far as the average working family was concerned. On the contrary, the standards were raised, but always subject to the tremendous impact of the war, which was unavoidable irrespective of what political party was in power.

Perhaps Mr. Jenkins is too young to remember pre-war conditions, or was not very familiar with certain industrial areas—mines, cotton, shipping.

Incidentally how long has it been necessary for any government to have a mandate to effect legislation it deems needful, or for that matter to forget mandates on which they were elected?

A. J. BROOME.

Quarantine or Not?

AT THE two ends of the Communist world, in Poland and in China, the same question has now been posed. Is it right or is it wrong, is it wise or is it unwise, to open up intercourse through the Iron Curtain? With Poland the U.S. has decided to open it up, and has gone so far as to negotiate an agreement to furnish economic aid. In China, American policy is still one of non-intercourse, and to maintain an embargo and a boycott. But in the United States is now alone among the leading powers of the world, and there is mounting opposition to the policy even at home. In fact, last week the President said that personally, though not yet as President, he was in favor of at least some freedom of trade with China.

Two Schools

There are, in all this, two main schools of thought. The one holds that rather than open up we should close down, that the best way to deal with Communist states is, as nearly as it is possible to do so, to put them in quarantine. The less contact with Communist regimes, the better.

Insofar as there is trade, it is the Communists who benefit. Insofar as there is diplomatic and cultural intercourse, it is the Communists who will succeed and subvert the non-Communists.

The Iron Curtain which was set up by the Communists to seal themselves off from the capitalist and democratic world is in fact essential to the security of the democratic and capitalist world.

Those who favor the quarantine policy would like to see the world divided into two closed systems. Then from behind the Iron Curtain each would bombard the other with propaganda.

The other school holds that Russia and China, instead of being weakened, grow stronger in the long run insofar as they are quarantined.

The real effect of the trade restrictions and the embargoes has been equivalent to erecting around them an enormously high tariff wall which compels them to develop their own industries and to make themselves self-sufficient.

This is costly. It may compel them to move more slowly. But once the price has been paid, the quarantined country is in a very strong position.

This applies to big countries like Russia and China. Smaller countries, like Poland, cannot hope to become self-sufficient. On them the effect of the quarantine policy is to make them wholly dependent upon the

The Struggle of the Border

THE TROUBLE with this column job, of course, is that it is forcing me to educate myself. It's hard work, I can tell you. And expensive!

Take this Social Studies course, for instance.

It seemed such a good idea in September. "Only one lesson every Wednesday evening, and a government exam in June," I told my startled family. "I don't know any Canadian history because I missed it all by being sent to boarding school in England. And now, I feel so stupid on the paper. Why, some of the people down at the office have Canadian history almost running out of their ears."

"When do we eat?" asked my husband.

"Just a Junior Matric course," I said, ignoring the plaintive plea. "The lowest rung on the educational ladder. If I can't scramble up to that one, they ought to take me out and shoot me."

That was in September. Now, in June, I can hear the tramp and rattle of the firing squad. For they're going to take me out and shoot me on June 21. By 11:30 a.m. on Friday week, I'll be just a little crumpled head. All 180 pounds of me!

And it's my own fault, darn it. I didn't do my homework. Half the time I never opened my books between lessons. I dodged the essays because they're so different from those I was trained to write that they nearly drove me nuts.

The memory work is quite appalling. I, who can't remember my grocery order without a scribbly little list, must somehow remember all these acts and facts and names and dates.

Ruth

Mind you, I wasn't really worrying until we had a practice exam about three weeks ago.

"What did you get?" asked the younger generation.

"Fifty-nine per cent," I whispered.

There was a curious silence.

"Well, I passed," I said defiantly.

"Just passing isn't good enough," said a son to whom I've made this exact remark at least 100 times.

"This slaphappy attitude of just doing enough to get by," quoted another, shaking his head. "Can't think what you old people are coming to these days."

"Can't expect to get good marks if you never do your homework," quoted a third.

"Lowest rung on the educational ladder," they yelled in chorus, and laughed like crazy.

"Old 59 per cent," said my husband. "I must remember that."

So now I'm terrified and working. I have lists and notes scotch-taped up all over the basement.

Yes, I'm struggling on the border line alright.

But I brought it on myself, I guess.

From now on you'll not catch me anywhere near any form of adult education.

I'm gonna stay dumb and be myself!

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Lack of Acid in the Gastric Juice

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

People write me much alarmed because a doctor has found that they have no hydrochloric acid in their gastric juice. Often in these cases, the mucous membrane of the stomach never did develop properly. Probably the person was born with a good lining to his stomach, and hence nothing can be done about the lack of juice. I know of no treatment that will bring back hydrochloric acid in the gastric juice. Some 40 years ago, I learned that thousands of persons can digest perfectly well with no acid in their stomach, and hence I practically never bother to treat their condition. Only if the person suffers from diarrhea will I try giving some acid, and then I quit it if it doesn't stop the diarrhea in a few days. I quit because the giving of the acid can take off the enamel on the inner side of the upper central four teeth.

The only people whom we physicians worry about a bit are those whose lack of hydrochloric acid is associated with a familiar type of so-called primary anemia. It is an anemia not due to the oozing of blood from some body cavity.

Many a time, when a young woman has walked into my office with beautiful grey hair, I have asked immediately, "Who in your family had pernicious anemia?" And often the woman has answered, "My mother died of it." Sometimes the person complains of some tingling and numbness in her legs, and then she must keep taking, at intervals for the rest of her days, a tiny dose of vitamin B12.

If I had a poorly developed lining in my stomach and no hydrochloric acid, I would be particularly careful to have an X-ray examination made each year. Why? Because a thin, poorly developed stomach lining is more likely to grow a cancer than is a normal one.

Many persons, as they get past 45 or 55, lose their gastric acid, much as they lose their hair or their teeth. In such cases, I see little cause for anxiety, and rarely any need for efforts at treatment—unless the person has trouble maintaining his (or her) blood in good shape. Then he should have treatment with vitamin B12.

THE ADVISABILITY OF CONSULTATIONS

Thoughtful people write asking if, when a patient has been told he must have an immediate operation, it is permissible or ethical to ask for consultation, or perhaps two or three of them. Of course, it is permissible and ethical, and often it is highly advisable. Every good doctor will welcome a consultation, especially when there is any doubt about the diagnosis. He doesn't want to operate on a reluctant or dissatisfied—or worried antagonistic patient.

In such a case, if anything should go wrong, there would almost surely be trouble, and perhaps law suit. There may be a few men in the profession who are unwise about consultations. They resent anyone's questioning their judgment or opinion, and they do not want any older doctor telling them what to do. That, of course, is a human trait.

I have seen a young surgeon even try to rush a patient into having an amputation of his whole leg and thigh because of a supposed cancer (sarcoma) of the bone. I am sure his old professor of surgery would have begged him not to do this, but would have said, "Wait, get at least three outstanding pathologists (experts in the examination of a bit of tissue removed from the tumor) to study the material, and do not go ahead until all agree that you must operate to save the person's life. Also, get opinions from three prominent surgeons."

"Get all these opinions in writing, and give copies to the patient. If the patient accepts the operation, he should say so in writing. Even then, there may be trouble later, when the man or woman is told by friends and acquaintances that if he (or she) had only gone to a certain doctor or some quick, the leg could have been saved."

Leaders of American surgery have warned people to be wary of a surgeon who wants to rush them into an operation, perhaps that afternoon or early the next morning, and who does not want any consultations. I personally would never be operated on by such a man. In my own case, even if it was a friend who said to me that he had found a hard cancerous nodule in my prostate gland, and wanted to perform an extensive operation to try and save me, I would say, "I don't question your wisdom, but if you don't mind, I would like to consult with two or three other able urologists to see how they feel as to the advisability of trying to remove the whole tumor."

Similarly, if I had a grandchild with a cancer in one eye, I would know that the eye should be removed, but for the sake of the frantic parents, I would take them quickly to three or four prominent eye consultants. I would never think of asking them to trust only to my knowledge or to the knowledge of one eye man—no matter how good he was.

And hence it is. I greatly admire the physician who, in a difficult case, does not even wait for a request for a consultation, but suggests that the patient see one or more "elder statesmen" in medicine.

Fired General In Honors List

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen yesterday awarded honors and decorations to about 2,600 of her subjects ranging from the men who took part in last year's military operation against Egypt to Sir Thomas Beecham, renowned orchestra conductor.

The official birthday-honors list made a baron of J. Arthur Rank, Service Order, Air Marshal Denis Barnett, the air task force commander, also was promoted to KCB.

One new viscount was created in the honors list—Baron Mackintosh of Halifax, chairman of the national savings council, a government group which encourages thrift.

The three new barons are:

Sir Horace Evans, 54, physician to the Queen;

Lt.-Gen. Sir Willoughby Norrie, who soon to become a governor-general of New Zealand;

Rank, 68, who as head of both a flour-milling and a movie empire is called the man who gave Britain both bread and circuses.

Honors lists are issued twice a year, at New Year's and on the occasion of the Queen's official birthday, June 13 this year. Her Majesty's real birthday—she was 31 on April 21—differs from the official date because by custom the Sovereign's birthday is set on the Thursday of the first full week in June.

Vice-Admiral Leonard Durland-Slater in charge of the Royal French naval task force, became a knight commander of the Order of the Bath (KCB) and Lt.-Gen. Sir Hugh Stockwell, who commanded the land task force, was given a bar to his Distinguished Order.

Among four new baronets—knights who can pass their title of "sir" on to their descendants—are Brig. Fitzroy MacLean, who during the war parachuted into Yugoslavia to help Tito's partisans against the occupying Germans.

Conductor Beecham, 78, was appointed to the very select group of Companions of Honor (CH).

Many weeds, especially thistles, become host plants at this season.

As the infestation reaches its height in late July, winged forms again appear and spread the pest to runner beans and other garden and wild plants.

It is a species of aphid which sucks the sap from the new growth and tender parts of plants, leaving a sticky deposit called "honey dew" which often becomes covered with a growth of sooty moulds.

The winter host plants, on which the eggs are carried from one season to the next, include the spindle bush (Euonymus europaeus) and the guelder rose (Viburnum opulus), snowball bush.

The adult stage is reached a few weeks after the spring hatch, and by giving birth to live aphides, a large colony is soon in evidence.

Winged aphides appear by the end of May, which migrate to broad beans and various types of therefore stomach poisons are not beet to start the summer colonies, effective on this pest.

Action taken at this time can effectively reduce the infestation of broad and runner beans later in the season.

Blackfly may be controlled by dusting or spraying the infected plants with a contact insecticide such as derris, pyrethrum or nicotine.

The insects must be hit by the poison for good results. They do not eat any portions of the plants, broad beans and various types of therefore stomach poisons are not beet to start the summer colonies, effective on this pest.

Infestation varies from season to season, but a rough forecast can be made by examining leaves of the spindle bush and guelder rose in spring for aphid colonies.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Overseas export interest in Canadian grains on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today was limited to moderate quantities of barley to the United Kingdom.

Otherwise trading in oats and barley was confined to domestic shipping purchases and prices moved in a narrow range.

Flax trade was less active, prices were hesitant, reflecting reports that United States flax had undersold Canadian flax.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat included Poland 575,000 bushels, Malta 370,000, Switzerland 232,000, United Kingdom 85,000 and The Netherlands 20,000.

Prices of class two, IWA and domestic wheat, basis Lakehead, included the following changes: Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 Northern were all down 1/4 cent, No. 5 Northern was down two cents, No. 6 Northern was down one cent, and the durums were down 1/4 cent.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP)—A weaker tone developed in grain futures in late after the market had displayed little change most of the session.

New crop wheat futures were off major fractions, while corn held somewhat steadier. Oats also were off almost a cent.

Soybeans showed a more firm trend than grains.

Heavy rainfall in the corn and soybean belt caused some strength in both these pits.

Car Insurance Minimum Raised

New Legislation Doubles Compulsory Coverage July 1

Minimum compulsory automobile insurance requirements in B.C. will be doubled within the next year.

Legislation raising the limits was approved at the spring legislative session and brought into effect by a cabinet order-in-council this week.

Date fixed by the cabinet was July 1 of this year but policies taken out in the first six months of this year won't have to be changed.

Penalties for carrying less than the new requirements will not be imposed until after July 1, 1958.

Most people already carry more insurance than the present minimum.

The new levels are $2,000 for property damage, $10,000 for bodily injury or death to one person, and $20,000 for injury or death to two or more persons.

Antique experts claim genuine antiques have an odor of age about them which cannot be faked.

CAMPING AT THETIS LAKE RULED OUT FOR THIS SUMMER

Fire hazards have ruled out use of Thetis Lake Park by campers this year.

Campsites were included in a $50,000 development plan outlined for the park recently by Ald. G. I. Edgeland. But until logging gets underway there is no income to carry out the program.

Meantime, there are no fireplaces or stoves and open fires are out.

PLEASURE AFLOAT

Boat of Future Being Tested

By DON INGHAM

The boat of the future, as far as types of propulsion are concerned, is undergoing tests today in Venezuela, South America.

There is Lake Maracaibo, a battle is being waged between the diesel engine and the gas turbine to determine which is the more practical and economical means of propulsion for small craft, whose size range is within that of the more popular pleasure boat dimensions. Tests are also being conducted to determine the practicability of the hydrofoil type of boat versus the conventional hull.

Lake Maracaibo is not actually a lake, but an extension of the Venezuela Gulf, and is reached through a pass located at the southwestern corner of the gulf proper. In size this so-called lake is approximately the same as Lake Ontario.

Shuttle Service

It is in Lake Maracaibo that extensive underwater drilling operations are under way in an effort to increase the oil supply from that area. Some of the drilling sites are as much as 40 miles off shore. It is, therefore, imperative that the crew boats, used to carry the drillers from shore to drilling location and return, have a good turn of speed, otherwise much time would be consumed in this non-productive part of the operation.

The boats used in this service range in size from 20-foot supervisory craft carrying from four to six persons, up to 68-foot launches with a carrying capacity of 50 persons.

Gas Turbine Power

The crew boats built in the United States for this service are powered with Boeing 250-horsepower gas turbines, and the boats are from the boards of Phil Rhodes, one of America's foremost designers of small craft.

A gas turbine is much lighter in weight than a diesel of the same horsepower. Some of this gain is lost through the additional gearing needed to reduce the turbine shaft speed to a reasonable propeller speed. Gas turbines are less economical of fuel than diesels, but the added fuel weight does not entirely offset the weight difference between the two types of motors. It is believed that the simplicity of the gas turbine will be a distinct advantage when it comes to maintenance.

The diesel-powered boats are 68-footers with a speed of 31.2 knots. Designed and built by John I. Thornycroft & Co., Ltd., of England, they are powered with a pair of Napier nine-cylinder diesels. These engines are a radical departure from anything built in North America. Each cylinder contains two opposed pistons. Three cylinders are arranged in triangular form with a crankshaft at each corner. Hence a nine-cylinder engine is but three cylinders long. Although these engines in models up to 18 cylinders have been employed extensively to drive naval craft, the Maracaibo launches mark the first commercial use.

Toe-Tappin' Performers On the Job

A couple of lads on their toes Wednesday were Don Hamilton (20), Victoria Shamrocks' young goalie, and Vancouver's Pilsener forward Gordie Gimpel (4). The Pilsener ace breaks through Rocks' defense to get away shot, which Hamilton deflects past corner of net. Victoria players Al Davies (3) and Lew Landess (2) are ready to help out. Rocks blew early 5-2 lead but came back for 11-8 lacrosse win over the third-place Vancouver squad. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

ARGOS' NEW GRID LOOK INCLUDES MUSIC, GIRLS

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Argonauts of 1957 will feature football, music and girls.

After last year's losing Big Four Football Union season, the Argos promised drastic changes and they now have come up with plans for a drum majorettes corps and a permanent band for pre-game and half-time entertainment at home games.

The Argo music-makers, following the pattern set by the Montreal Alouettes' band, will feature acrobatic young females, selected for their beauty and skill with the baton.

In past years the Argos have had military bands playing at their home games. Last year, however, because of a dispute with the Toronto Musicians' Union there was no band entertainment. The Argos featured peewee football teams during the half-time instead.

STAN STILL THE BEST

Gil Will Settle For .304 Again

By FRED DOWN

BROOKLYN (UP)—Brooklyn's Gil Hodges wants it clearly understood with Stan Musial, Hank Aaron and company that winning the National League batting title "is the furthest thing from my mind."

The Dodgers' 33-year-old first baseman is the current league leader but he has no illusions that he'll be able to maintain his pace over the full season.

"I'm not that kind of a hitter," Hodges explained. "Besides, who am I to win a batting title while Musial is still in the league? He's something of a better hitter than I am—say about a hundred points."

Musial hasn't won a batting title since he coppered the sixth of his career in 1952, but Hodges figures Stan is the favorite in a field that also includes Aaron, Willie Mays, Frank Robinson and perhaps Bill Virdon.

FAST START

"Musial's got a fast start this year and he still is the class hitter in this league," Gil reasoned. "He's got a good cushion against a slump and he's the one guy who might go through the entire season without having a slump at all."

Hodges' own objective is considerably more modest than winning a batting championship.

"I'll settle to hit .300," he says. "My top average in the majors is .304 (in 1954) and, of course, I'd like to top that. But .300 on the nose will be enough to satisfy me."

SURPRISED

Over an 11-year-span, Hodges owns a .276 big league average and is known to the trade as a confirmed free swinger, who will drive in 100 runs, hit 30 or more homers and bat around .280. He was surprised to learn that he wouldn't be the first of that type hitter to win a batting title with an average 60 to 70 points over his career figure.

Hal Chase was a .275 hitter from 1909 until 1916 when he hit .331 to win the title and Mickey Vernon won batting titles the only two years he hit over .300 between 1940 and 1953.

"Maybe there's some hope for me at that," he smiled after studying the figures, "but I'd have a lot better chance if Musial gave up this racket to sell insurance."

CENTURY CLUB

SOLARIUM DERBY

In several years of commercial fishing out of Nanaimo Bay prior to 1920, Frank Nuttall hauled in dozens of huge salmon, including a 60-pounder.

But since joining the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association seven years ago, Frank has been unable to find a big one in the inlet and is still chasing his first VSAIA button for a salmon over 20 pounds.

President of the VSAIA this year, Frank has made far more than button-sized contributions to the Queen Alexandra Solarium during the past several years through his work for the annual Solarium Salmon Derby and he has again qualified for the derby's Century Club by selling more than 100 tickets for the July 21 fishing competition.

Frank's wife, Violet, is his fishing partner and helps in the ticket selling.

Both want to see this year's derby break all records because: "The more tickets we sell, the more dollars go to help the Solarium youngsters."

The Nuttalls will be pleased to sell you a derby ticket or tell you or the derby if you call them more about either the Solarium 4-4256.

Shamrocks Smack Lips Over Pilseners' Sauce

Rocks Outrun Vancouver; Grab Share of Top Berth

Shamrocks 11, Pilseners 8

By DOUG PEDEN

Sauce for the Pilseners is sauce for the Irish, and Victoria Shamrocks were still smacking their lips today as they headed for New Westminster to sample the fare at the Salmonbelly table.

The Rocks helped themselves to a big portion of the Pilseners' favorite boxla dessert at Memorial Arena Wednesday night, chewed up the Pils, 11-8, and sat back contentedly to digest a share of the Inter-City Lacrosse League lead.

Tonight they get a chance to break the first-place tie with Nanaimo Timbermen when they sit down with the Salmonbellies at Queen's Park Arena.

Comprised mostly of players from the Mount Pleasant club that collected the Canadian junior crown last year, Pilseners are a team with a shortage of senior experience and an abundance of youthful enthusiasm. Speed and hustle have been the weapons that have kept them rolling within four points of the league lead.

With a club averaging 20 years of age on the floor Wednesday night, it was expected the Pils would again strike with their big weapons while the Irish would be playing the same waiting, checking game that wrecked Jack McKinnin's youngsters, 14-6, on their last visit to Memorial Arena.

But it was the Shamrocks who grabbed the initiative to outlast the Pils at their own running game. And without the advantage of speed, the Pilseners were doomed although they weren't entirely convinced until the final quarter.

Irish Defensive Lapses Helped Pils

Helped by some great blocking by goalie Dave Unwin and getting a couple of lifts when the Irish forgot their checking assignments, the Vancouverites were still hanging on with a 7-7 tie with four minutes left in the third period.

Then Peeewee Bradshaw fired his second goal of the night to put the Rocks in front to stay and Lew Landess, faking through the defense for the neatest tally of the night, made it 9-7 going into the final quarter.

Bob Dobbie drilled an under-place whistler past Unwin to start the fourth period and make it 5-5 at the half.

Druce Returns for Tonight's Game

Shamrocks moved in front the tussle on the smaller New again on goals by Alan Gill and Westminster floor, will have Bill Bamford, then watched Don rugged Tommy Druce back in Cummings and Fred Usselman break-through to run the count to 7-7 before Bradshaw started the Rocks rolling again.

Bradshaw, with two goals and a pair of assists, led the Victoria scoring attack. Bamford had a goal and two assists while Don Sherry added two goals to the Irish cause.

For Vancouver, it was Hunt and Usselman leading the way, each with two goals and an assist.

Pils lost the services of Tom Murphy late in the first half. Struck on the left eye by a drive from Jack Blonda's stick, Murphy was taken to hospital for examination. Reports indicated he suffered no serious injury, but Murphy will be examined by an eye specialist today.

Johnston will be back in the Irish goal at New Westminster tonight and coach Whitey Severon, adding extra weight for after Art Green had boosted the count to 11-8 against the disorganized Pils with 10 minutes remaining. Shamrocks appeared content to coast the rest of the way.

Ted Hunt trimmed the deficit by one goal at 5-8, but the visitors never seriously threatened to pull it out in their closing flurries.

Don Hamilton, taking over from Geordie Johnston the Victoria goal, blanked the Pils for 21 minutes as the Rocks moved into a 3-0 lead. They were leading 5-2, before the Pils shifted through for three easy tallies in just over two minutes to start the fourth period and make it 5-5 at the half.

Bright reached across the plate while he was being purposely walked in the bottom of the ninth to slap a ball into the outfield for a clean hit and drive home Al Heist from third base with the run that won for Sacramento.

George Witt subdued Vancouver for the Stars with a three-hit shutout. His mates scored two off Charlie Beaumont in the third frame and chased him with three more in the sixth.

It was the second straight win for the Stars over the Mounties and brought them to within three games of the top spot.

Duane Pillette stayed on the mound and at the plate for Seattle. Pillette relieved starter Russ Meyer when he pulled a muscle in the third and three-hitted the Beavers the rest of the way to get the win. In addition he drove in a sixth-inning run that broke a 1-1 tie with a single.

Mounties Love Stingy Martin

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Vancouver pitcher Morrie Martin sits atop the Pacific Coast League statistics for stinginess with a lean 1.64 average for earned runs over his 6-1 season's record.

In other departments, San Francisco's Harry Dorish, George Bamberger of the Mounties and Hollywood's Benn Daniel are tied for the most wins with seven each, while Curt Raydon of Hollywood has the most strikeouts with 62.

In the debit side, Portland's Bob Anderson and Sacramento's Mike Coen have the most losses, seven each, and Charley Rabe of Seattle has issued the most walks, 46.

BEN DID HAVE HOPES

Closeup of Ben Hogan's hands shows his new (for Ben) putting grip. Hogan switched to this grip, which resembles a ball player's grip on a bat, after sweating out three-putt greens in the recent Masters tournament. He had planned to use it today as he started off in quest of his fifth U.S. Open crown, but was forced out at last minute by chronic neuralgic ailment. (NEA.)

TWO-IN-ONE TOURNEY

Plenty at Stake For Junior Aces

The younger set invades Uplands Golf Club Saturday and a field of 35, with an added boost to start them off, will tee off in quest of the city junior championship.

The extra incentive will be in the form of a trip to Vancouver's who should use the knowledge of his home course to good advantage, or George Vale's Alan MacLeod Island's representative in the B.C. junior championships June 28.

Saturday's 36 holes of medal play will also be used to decide the Zone 1 champion. The top two shotmakers, following the two trips over the 6,219-yard Uplands course, will advance to the B.C. final.

With two titles on the line, the chipping and putting will be in deadly earnest. Absent will be defending champion Doug Munro, because of graduation through age 18. The race will be wide open.

DALZIEL FAVORED

The field, including two representatives from Nanaimo and Duncan, will be headed by George Martin has signed a contract to play his fifth season with Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, team manager Dean Griffing announced today.

Martin is the seventh home-brew holdover to come to terms with the Riders.

They Forget Fidgety Cary

Middlecoff Picks Ford But Snead Still Around

By WILL GRIMSLY

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Cary Middlecoff, a fidgety Memphis dentist who can't find his oldtime urge, opened defense of his United States open golf championship today as a forgotten outsider in a field of the game's greatest stars.

The lanky dentist, in a pronounced limp, picked Masters champion, Doug Ford as the man most likely to snatch his crown. But around rain-swept Inverness two old and familiar names rang out loudest of all: Ben Hogan and Sam Snead.

Hogan, 44, lean and fit, armed with a new putting grip, and apparently hungry for a fifth Open championship which eluded even the immortal Bobby Jones was the sentimental favorite of the fans and practical choice of the hardened pros. They still feared "the little man." But Hogan was forced out at the last minute by back pains.

The 45-year-old Snead, who has blown a half dozen Opens and been runner-up in four, plays the Inverness Club course as if he owns it, whacking out of the rough when his tee shots wander and making the course's 6,919 yards look half the length.

But most observers feel the only sure winner to emerge from the 72-hole medal play test ending with 36 rigorous holes Saturday is the Inverness par of 70. The guess is 282 to 285.

The course has been considerably toughened since pipe-smoking Ted Ray of Scotland won here in 1920, the last foreigner and at 43 the oldest ever.

Following is Saturday's draw:

10.00 and 2.30-D. Dalziel, M. Koth, W.

W. 10.07 and 2.31-R. Brousseau, P. Watson,

N. Dalziel, R. Saunders,

A. 10.21 and 2.31-R. Lestrang, W. Carlow,

10.28 and 2.31-D. Sparks, D. Moss, D.

Bennington, J. McKay,

H. Pickens, R. Caddell,

10.42 and 3.12-B. Gray, M. Harcourt,

P. 10.49 and 3.12-T. Moulde, W. du Temple,

Gillies, D. Humphries,

10.50 and 3.28-R. Battress, B. Wilson.

North Shore Wins On Late Comeback

VANCOUVER (CP)—North Shore United scored twice in the final five minutes to earn a 3-3 tie Wednesday night in a Pacific Coast Summer Soccer League match against Vancouver Hecos.

The score was tied 1-1 at half-time, after Steve Biddle scored for Hecos on a free kick at 27 minutes and Bruce Ashdown tied it on a penalty kick at 30 minutes.

Art Hughes scored at two minutes of the second half and Biddle notched his second at the 20-minute mark to give Hecos a 3-1 lead, but successive goals by Eddie Bak, at 40 minutes, and Ashdown again, at 42 minutes, knotted up the game.

Three other Canadians are entered—Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Lachute, Que.; Gerry Kesseling of Kitchener, Ont., and Toronto, and Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont.

BOY KILLED ON BALL FIELD

MARPLEWOOD, N.J. (AP) —

Richard Drummond was pitching in an intra-class softball game Wednesday when an opposing batsman hit a line drive into his stomach, killing him.

Drummond, a 16-year-old sophomore at Columbia High School, dropped to the ground and died before his horror-struck classmates.

Social Climber After DeMarco

NORFOLK, Va. (UP)—Welterweight Virgil Akins of St. Louis, encouraged by his unanimous decision over Walter Byars, asked today for a shot at the top contender.

"I deserve a fight with Tony DeMarco," said lanky Virgil. "DeMarco could get only a split decision over Byars last month."

Akins' harder punching at long range beat stubby Byars of Boston, before 3,000 in their 10-rounder at the City Arena Wednesday night. It was the sixth straight victory for 148-pound Virgil, rated fourth among contenders.

Byars, 144, suffered his second straight defeat. The ninth-ranking contender lost to top-rated ex-champion DeMarco of Boston on May 24.

"Naturally I'd like a title fight with Carman Basilio," said Akins. "But I'll settle for a bout with DeMarco, and I deserve that bout."

UNPOPULAR NOD

Many of the fans thought 29-year-old Akins didn't deserve the decision last night. They booted the verdict after rooting throughout for little 24-year-old Walter, the 12-3, underdog. But the three ring officials favored Akins on the 10-point-must scoring: 98-93, 99-96 and 96-94.

It was an excellent fight. Harder-hitting Akins shook up his opponent with long left jabs, straight rights and shots to the body. He gashed Byars' left brow in the fourth round and staggered him in the fifth.

BELGIUM MEETS ENGLAND IN NET SEMIS

LONDON (AP) — Semi-finalists have been decided in the race for the Davis Cup tennis title in the European zone, with Belgium opposing England and Sweden meeting Italy. The finalists must be decided by July 23.

Belgium and England gained their brackets Monday after victories in third-round matches extended to the final point.

The European zone winner will meet the winner of the American-Easter zone competition by Dec. 16 to decide the challenger against defending-champion Australia.

Philip Walker and Jackie Bricham won their final singles matches as Belgium rallied to whip Mexico 3-2.

Welshman Michael Davies won a five-set match against Robert Halliet of France to provide the clincher of a 3-2 triumph.

Sweden, which clinched its third-round series Sunday, completed a 4-1 triumph over Denmark Monday.

6.3 Million Popular Vote Shatters All-Time Record

TORONTO (CP)—Compilation of by-province percentages brackets the popular vote by provinces in the June 10 Dominion election. Nfld. shows that the Progressive Con.-P.E.I. 53,955 (61) 33,792 (38) 29,570 (46) 33,404 (53) 126,355 (22.4 per cent). Social Credit polled 116,510 votes or 6.6 per cent of the total. Most Social Credit votes came in Alberta with 154,814 (37.6 per cent) and B.C., 137,865 (24.4 per cent).

A Canadian Press compilation Alta. based on 96 per cent of polls shows an all-Canada total of 6,322,093 votes, well above the previous record of 5,848,766 established in 1949. Indications are that from 73 to 74 per cent of eligible voters went to the polls, compared with CCF votes came in the following provinces, with the per cent of 6.6 per cent in 1953.

Following table shows Liberal province total bracketed: Ontario, and Progressive Conservative vote 268,847 (12.3 per cent); Manitoba,

LOSERS LOSE TWICE

$67,000 Forfeited By 334 Candidates

By THE CANADIAN PRESS The Canadian government will collect probably more than $67,000 in deposits lost by candidates in Monday's election.

Compilations by The Canadian Press showed that possibly 334 candidates of the 858 whose names were on the ballots for the voting will lose the $200 deposit each was required to post when nominated. Another five who withdrew also forfeit their deposits.

This compares with the all-time high of $92,400 in the 1945 elections when 462 in the record field of 952 forfeited their deposits by polling less than half the vote of the elected member in their constituencies. In 1953, 405 of 897 candidates lost their deposits.

Heaviest losses appeared to be in Ontario, with 106, and Quebec, with 82.

Of the 162 CCF candidates, 108 lost their deposits. Social vote by provinces in the June 10 Dominion election shows that the Progressive Conserva-

Guard Acquitted On Drug Charge

(From CP Dispatches) NEW WESTMINSTER—John Keverkamp, recently dismissed Oakalla prison farm guard, was acquitted today on a narcotics charge in front of County Judge F. K. Grimmett called the most difficult decision he has faced.

Keverkamp, 28-year-old Dutch immigrant, wept in the dock when told he had been freed. He was charged with having possession of narcotics which police said he received in a rubber case concealed in a tube of toothpaste delivered at his home.

Judge Grimmett said he doubted if the guard knew what was concealed in the rubber case.

"He would not have put it in the garbage can and left it there for two days if he was going to use it for trafficking. There are much better hiding places."

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP) — Anne Frank's native city Wednesday observed what would have been her 28th birthday. An organization of German victims of the Hitler regime placed a memorial tablet on the Frank family's house.

Anne, her mother and her sister died in a Nazi concentration camp in 1944. Her diary was made into a prize-winning American play.

(A) "THE LITTLE HUT" got a moral. If only you can find it! Then, obviously, the moral of "The Little Hut" is husbands should be gentlemen enough to notice the shade and cut of their spouses' new nighties—especially after being away on business for some weeks.

At the instant of "The Little Hut" the hubby is Stewart Granger and the wife is Ava Gardner. When the play opens Ava has been so neglected that she is carrying on with "the other man" David Niven, although, as any fool can plainly see, for the sole purpose of making hubby jealous.

Then, one day, while on the high seas in Granger's luxury yacht, they are shipwrecked and the three are cast up on what turns out to be an uninhabited island. There Granger builds two huts, a big one for he and his wife and a little hut for friend Niven. From there on in the play is mainly concerned with Niven's efforts to get into the big hut.

IN ADDITION to the sex angle, however, there is much fun for the customer, such as the shipwrecked three stoutly dressing for dinner beneath the "flag" a standard, particularly to Granger, that all yet is well with the Empire. Then there is the hilarious moment when Granger, as ship's captain, pronounces that he and his wife are divorced and moves stoically into the little hut. But amorous-mind Niven is held at bay from Ava's charms by Granger's best friend—his dog.

All three principals are excellent, Miss Gardner surprising as a top-notch comedienne. As a matter of record one sees an unusual amount of her in this picture, which detract from the film not one bit. Although all the smaller roles are filled adequately it is Italy's Walter Chiari, as the passionate pseudo-native chief who would like to make Miss Gardner his chief's choice, who catches the eye.

"The Little Hut," of course, is adult entertainment.

To avoid disappointment we urge you to see this picture from the beginning to the end of the week as possible. No increase in price.

Oak Bay School Health Queried

Trustees To Be Asked to Consider Invoking Union Board of Health

Greater Victoria School Board will be asked Monday to consider placing Oak Bay schools under jurisdiction of the Victoria-Esquimalt Union Board of Health.

School trustee and health board member Richard Reeve for the services. The school board appoints a health inspector, at present Dr. Gordon Kenning, school authorities said.

Oak Bay Reeve Fred Norris said he thought the inequality in health services in schools "was the other way around," with Oak Bay receiving the best care. "We used to examine them every year, which I think was too often."

It was reported at a union health board meeting Tuesday that children in the Oak Bay schools are not examined annually for physical defects.

Also, the health board reported there was a lack of liaison between the school health authorities and the home in health matters.

The health board has tried for several years to bring Oak Bay into the union board. It was pointed out some Oak Bay children attending schools in Victoria obtain Victoria health services.

But due to health board boundaries, there could be no follow up of cases when a child was restricted to his home.

At the present time, nurses attending schools in Oak Bay are appointed by the municipal authority which bills the school board.

Planners Need Right to End 'Urban Sprawl'

Capital Region planners must be given the right to regulate the "urban sprawl" of residential construction, J. W. Wilson, director of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board, said here Wednesday.

At present their recommendations can be overruled by municipal councils.

Community Planning Association's duty is "to pressure and to lobby, to change public opinion" before it was too late. Mr. Wilson advised an annual meeting of the Capital Region Branch.

Otherwise haphazard home construction in the Capital Region area will reach "absolutely frightening" proportions.

The "indiscriminate scattering" of residential development has led to problems in provision of municipal services that is almost insoluble in some cases, he said.

"In the name of common sense . . . we must zone or restrict our development to areas that can be serviced," Mr. Wilson said. "Having done that, we must service them."

A heavy factor in the disorganized home planning has been brought about by tax assessment policies that "quite unfairly and improperly penalize farmers," he said.

When the small farmer sells parcels of land, it leads to areas "that have 40 houses where there should have been 110," he said.

Du Pont Plant Wins' Fight on Air Pollution

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — A scientific battle against air pollution has apparently been won at the nylon plant at Maitland, Ont., of Du Pont Company of Canada.

A technical 29-page paper on the matter—a sort of textbook in itself for those faced with similar situations—was read to the current annual meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada by H. R. L. Straight of Du Pont's engineering department.

The battle began when the plant was in the design stage, with the result that by the time operations began, the amount of contaminating matter sent into the air was, in the words of Mr. Straight, "low and safe." He added: "The experience gained has convinced us that air pollution from a complete organic chemical plant can be controlled."

Duncan Aged Citizens Plan Housing Project

DUNCAN — Elderly Citizens' Association of Duncan has taken an option on acreage at the corner of Sherman Road and the Old Island Highway as the proposed site of an elderly citizens housing project.

With the purchase of this site, the association expects to be in a better position to raise funds for its housing project.

Mr. Martin told the association's annual meeting that the provincial government would not enter into any health services agreement with the federal government that would infringe upon its autonomy. Likewise, he said, "we must assure you that the provincial government will not interfere with your autonomy."

Nanaimo Mayor Sees Insult By Pensioner

NANAIMO (CP) — Mayor Pete Maffeo accused an old-age pensioner of insulting him Tuesday night when he attended a meeting of the pensioners' organization to answer questions on a senior citizens' housing project.

The mayor attended the meeting along with Chas Swanson of the housing committee at the request of Mrs. Teresa Murdoch, OAP secretary.

There has been only one application for accommodation in the housing project.

Mr. Swanson was explaining rentals and electricity charges when Jack Parker, seated at the back of the room, told him his figures were "haywire."

"NO RIGHT

"We've not come here to be insulted," said the mayor. "Do you want to go to the housing committee yourself?"

"Certainly not," replied Mr. Parker.

"Then I don't think you have any right to challenge Mr. Swanson," said Mr. Maffeo.

Said Mrs. Murdoch, after the mayor left: "I don't feel happy about the attitude of some of the members today. This is the last time that I ask anyone here to explain things to you."

Mr. Maffeo said there have been two applications from Vancouver for housing accommodation in the new project but "we want to rent them to those here who need them."

BENNETT ASKS OLD LOOK FOR GOVERNMENT HOUSE

If Premier Bennett has his way, Victoria's new Government House will look a lot like the old one. The premier said at his press conference today that he wants the replacement to be "as near as possible to the original, especially on the inside." Asked if orders to that effect had gone to the government architects who are drawing up the plans, Mr. Bennett replied with a twinkle: "I've let my wishes be known."

. . . don't have to tell Junior he's been a bad boy . . . don't have to feed Large Dog or Small Cat . . . got the whole house to myself . . .

. . . let's see now, first thing I'll do, I'll make myself a Martini . . . glasses all clean and polished . . . glasses?

. . . I only need one . . . wonder why women make such a fuss about washing glasses . . . no trouble at all . . . let's have a look here . . . yes, there's the vermouth . . . lots of ice in the frige, I see . . . wonderful the way there's always ice in the frige . . .

. . . for once, I can have a second Martini before dinner. If I want to . . . nobody to yell at me "dinner's ready" . . . and I can read the paper in peace . . . Junior won't be at me to play catch with him . . .

. . . hmmm, sure is peaceful here, with the paper to read and a Martini at hand . . . lots of news in the paper what with the election and all . . . really fine, able to read the paper without her interrupting . . . not that I have anything against her but I like to read with nobody interrupting . . .

. . . say, that's an interesting item . . . dear, did you see in the paper where . . . oh, almost forgot, she isn't here . . .

. . . think I'll have that second Martini . . . but maybe I'd better finish the first one first . . . first things first, I always say . . .

. . . sure is peaceful around here. Nobody yelling at me "dinner is ready" . . .

. . . dinner. Did I say dinner? . . . guess I'd better eat. One thing, I can take the paper to the table with me and there'll be nobody to complain . . .

. . . speaking of eating, better feed Large Dog and Small Cat . . . no, I don't have to, they aren't here . . . sure is a break, not having to feed the dog or the cat . . . sure is peaceful around here . . . wonder if I should have that second Martini . . . doesn't seem much point to it . . . think I'll cook myself a good dinner instead . . .

. . . surveys prove men are better cooks than women . . . think I'll have a Spanish omelette . . . women can't cook Spanish omelettes the way men can . . .

. . . hmm, where are the eggs? . . . there they are . . . do I need the deep fry pan or the shallow fry pan? . . . of course, I like pork and beans, too . . .

. . . there's a can of pork and beans somewhere in this cupboard. I'm sure . . . where's the can-opener? . . .

. . . sure is nice to have the house to myself . . .

. . . sure is peaceful around here . . .

Smith Demands Bridge Money

Alderman Asks B.C. Decision On Point Ellice Contribution

City council was urged today to demand a yes or no answer from the provincial government on aid to Point Ellice Bridge.

Ald. J. Donald Smith, who is also a Social Credit member of the legislature, said this morning he will call for action at a meeting later today.

"We must get a yes or no answer. Verbal commitments have been made and confirmation is long overdue.

"Several important city projects are being held up," the alderman stated.

Chamber of Commerce officials last week were quoted as anticipating almost all stores in Victoria would remain open Wednesdays in the tourist season.

Tabulation of the last 35 polls pushed the total of winning Conservative candidate Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. to 14,492 votes.

The other three, who all lost their $200 deposits because they failed to poll half of Gen. Pearkes' vote, followed up in this order:

Alistair Fraser (Liberal), 4,433; Dr. J. M. Thomas (C.C.F.), 4,186; and Noel Bell (Social Credit), 3,433.

A total of 27,271 persons voted, or 76 per cent of those eligible. This was one per cent lower than the percentage in Victoria but about six per cent above the national average.

Kalakala Returns

Commissioner Friday there will be seven round trips daily between Victoria and Port Angeles.

Washington State Ferries' Mt. Kalakala will commence its summer schedule of four round trips daily, added to the CPR's three trips.

At his press conference today, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said: "Whatever commitment we made we will live up to."

He declined to say whether the government was prepared to meet the federal grant, but pointed out, the city has not yet received any money from Ottawa.

Bonnie Schacht received the citizenship award, presented by the students' council, and the Barlow memorial award for sportsmanship went to John Davies.

For outstanding contributions to the school, Old English "E" letters were given to John Davies, Alison Hall, Bonnie Schacht, Sue Atkinson, Sonia Molofy, Margaret Hogg and Joyce Nelms.

Bamford-Leno Marriage In St. Andrew's Church

Dr. J. L. W. McLean officiated, and Miss Kathleen Paulin sang "Because."

Gold crystaline with deeper gold velvet in folds forming a collar styled the bride's princess gown. Her headband was of the deep gold velvet and her shoes were gold satin. Her jewelry was the groom's gift of a jeweled bracelet. A white orchid centred her stephanotis bouquet. Her brother, Frank Leno Jr., gave her in marriage.

She was attended by Mrs. George Crombie, who was gowned in beige lace, over taffeta with matching handband. Peach gladioli formed her bouquet. Murray Bracewell was best man and ushers were John Bamford, brother of the groom, and Walter Acmen.

Other officers: Vice-president, Mrs. Florence Desrosiers; secretary, Mrs. Agnes Hampton, both of Vancouver; warden, Mrs. Pauline Hoskins, Chilliwack; treasurer, Mrs. Isobel Armstrong.

Mrs. Beulah Rogers, Lawrence, Kan., president of the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies, is attending the three-day session.

The parade to the Cenotaph scheduled for Wednesday afternoon with members of the Grand Lodge Odd Fellows was cancelled due to rain. Instead, branch representatives of the order, meeting here, went directly to the monument, where wreaths were laid.

Ontario Visitors
Mrs. Frank Sanders, Woodstock Ont., and Miss Alberta Fullerton and Mrs. Charles Kerr of Toronto, are in Victoria this week. They are staying at "Twin Cedars" on Newport Avenue and visiting Mrs. C. Wyatt, 1302 Rockland Avenue.

Summer Bazaar At Cordova Bay

Roses and early summer flowers were used by Mrs. S. Morgan Hobbs to decorate the church hall, St. David's-by-the-Sea, for the annual summer bazaar and tea held under "auspices of the Women's Guild. He described Graham as a

RAIN, WIND POSTPONE U.S. OPEN GOLF PLAY

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A terrific rain and wind-storm struck the Inverness club today and forced the U.S. Golf Association to suspend play temporarily in the first round of the U.S. open golf championship.

The rain was accompanied by winds ranging up to 50 miles an hour in gusts. (See Page 13.)

OFFICIALLY 31 TODAY

Queen Troops Guard Colors

LONDON (UP)—Queen Elizabeth officially turned 31 years of age today with a brilliant state ceremony marking the most momentous year on the throne.

Wearing a colonel's army uniform and sitting erect on her horse, Elizabeth paraded before an estimated 250,000 persons in the glorious "trooping of the colors." It was her last full-dress function before her visit this fall to the United States and Canada.

The Queen's blue riding skirt was draped carefully over her crossed legs. Her tunic of almost blood red was slashed by vivid blue riband of the Order of the Garter. She wore a green

ROYAL VISIT TOO SHORT SAYS PRESS

LONDON (AP)—British newspapers are complaining that Queen Elizabeth's advisers will ruin her visit to the United States this fall by restricting it to six days. They also urge that royal protocol be scrapped for the occasion.

"What a skimpy, exhausting dollar tour the hush-hush boys Buckingham Palace advisers have cooked up for the Queen," says the mass circulation Daily Mirror.

"What a miserable ration of America she and Prince Philip will see — particularly of an America just bustin' out all over to give them the time of their lives."

"The hush-hush boys — who would still be keeping the secret of any kind of royal tour to themselves if Prince Philip hadn't told the world about it — need a special course in tourism — and human relations."

During the American visit, the Queen and Philip will visit New York, Washington, and Jamestown, Va., following their visit to Ottawa.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, our Father, who knowest our needs, who seest our weaknesses and our strengths, forgive, we pray, when we fail Thee through weak determination. Strengthen our wavering wills until they become strong. May we ever keep in mind that all Thy power is available for the asking. Be Thou near in affliction and sorrow and strengthen Thy faltering people; in Jesus' name. Amen.

STRONG 'QUAKE RECORDED HERE

A strong earthquake in the Aleutian chain was recorded at 4:56 a.m. today at Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Little Saanich-Mountain.

Seismologists at Fordham University in New York City called the "quake the 'biggest' recorded in the Aleutian chain in three months.

WIRE BRIEFS

Commonwealth Meet to Go On

LONDON (CP)—Official sources said today there is little chance of the forthcoming conference of Commonwealth prime ministers being postponed.

They were commenting on a suggestion in The Times proposing a postponement because Commonwealth prestige may be reduced if a number of prime ministers are unable to attend the conference, which opens June 26.

The trooping of the colors came next.

Hours before the colorful ceremony, thousands of persons crowded the sidewalks outside of Buckingham Palace along the Mall to the Admiralty Arch and the Horse Guards parade grounds. Many were there before dawn, carrying huge picnic lunches.

It was a glorious summer day. The temperature was in the 70s and the skies cloudless.

The Queen actually turned 31 last April 21. But June is the month of good weather in London, so officially every ruler's birthday falls in June.

The splendid ritual of the "trooping of the colors" has been the same for centuries.

The Queen reviewed the beaver-hatted troops of her brigade of Guards who then paid obeisance to the flag. The ceremony stems from the days of old when British troops rallied before their flags before going into battle.

France to Allow Ships to Travel Suez Canal Again

PARIS (AP)—The French government has decided to permit French ships to once again use the Suez Canal, a foreign ministry spokesman said today.

No announcement was made as to the date ships would begin passing through the canal.

France has been maintaining a lone boycott of the canal since the decision of other users to send their ships through again. The outgoing government of Guy Mollet was under strong pressure to end the boycott because of the economic disadvantages it entailed.

CCF Heads to Meet

OTTAWA (UP)—The CCF party will hold a national executive meeting Friday at Woodsworth House in Toronto, party headquarters announced Wednesday.

Party leader M. J. Coldwell, national chairman David Lewis and national secretary Lorne Ingle will be among those on hand.

Diesel Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—The Kellock royal commission investigating the CPR diesel dispute announced today it will study rail operations in France, Switzerland, The Netherlands and the United Kingdom during August.

A STAY FOR SYMES

ON JUNE 25, just 12 days from now, a Duncan logger named Thomas Sydney Symes is sentenced to hang.

The facts of the case are quite well known in this area.

On New Year's day, after a period of "excessive drinking," Symes went to his wife's home. There he found her, in her bedroom, in the arms of his best friend, Paul Richard Powling.

Symes went outside, picked up a gun, loaded it, returned, and shot Powling dead. He said that Powling had destroyed any chance he might have had of a reunion with his wife and three-year-old son.

The case was fully and fairly tried in the courts and the jury found Symes guilty of murder. In such a finding, the death sentence is mandatory and it was so pronounced by Mr. Justice Wilson.

An appeal was heard, and denied.

Grounds for such a decision were apparently two-fold: first, that Symes was legally separated from his wife, and therefore not quite in the position as enraged husbands who, seeing their homes violated, have invoked the so-called "unwritten law" and been found guilty only of manslaughter; and second, the fact that he had bought shells and a gun, and gone outside to get them, was firm evidence of premeditated murder.

Persons sympathetic to Symes point out, however, that he had been trying to effect a reconciliation with his wife and son and must, therefore, have cared deeply for them.

All this, of course, is evidential history.

But the fact remains that Symes has only 12 days left to live. His only hope for commutation of the sentence rests with the Minister of Justice at Ottawa.

And here a new element enters the case. Mr. Justice Garson—Symes' "court of last resort" for executive clemency—has been defeated in this week's election, and therefore has no authority at all to act.

With this in mind, The Times urges the authorities, both provincial and federal, to order a stay of execution until a new Minister of Justice can have an opportunity to review the case.

It would be a dreadful thing if, during the confusion and uncertainty resulting from the election, and the appointment of a new Cabinet, Symes' last appeal went into the "limbo" and was never heard.

The clock is ticking inexorably towards June 25.

BANG, WHAM, CRASH, OUCH

Plaintive Pleader At End of His Rope

LONDON (UP)—The Manchester Guardian today quoted as "an example of stoicism" the following unsigned letter—ostensibly from a bricklayer in the Barbados to his contracting firm:

"Respected Sir,

"When I go to the building, I found that the hurricane had knocked some bricks off the top. So I rigged up a beam with a pulley at the top of the building and hoisted up a couple of barrels full of bricks. When I had fixed the building, there was a lot of bricks left over.

"I hoisted the barrel back up again and secured the line at the bottom, and then went up and filled the barrel with extra bricks. Then I went to the bottom and cast off the line.

"Unfortunately, the barrel of bricks was heavier than I was, and before I knew what was happening the barrel started down, jerking me off the ground. I decided to hang on—and halfway up I met barrel coming down and received a severe blow on the shoulder.

"I then continued to the top, banging my head against the beam and getting my fingers jammed in the pulley. When the barrel hit the ground it bursted its bottom, allowing all the bricks to spill out.

"I was now heavier than the barrel and so started down again at high speed. Halfway down, I met the barrel coming up and received severe injuries to my shins. When I hit the ground I landed on the bricks, getting several painful cuts from the sharp edges. At this point I must have lost my presence of mind, because I let go the line. The barrel then came down giving me another heavy blow on the head and putting me in hospital.

"I respectfully request sick leave."

An inquest will be held, police said, but the time and date have yet to be set.

War on Speeders Ordered in B.C.

Police all over the province have declared war on speeders for the remainder of June in an effort to "cut the appalling highway toll."

George Lindsay, superintendent of Motor Vehicles, said today the Provincial Motor Licence Branch will back them in their campaign by suspending the licence of convicted motorists.

On the basis of their campaign pledges, the Conservatives are expected, however, to seek a new agreement with the province.

Party leader John Diefenbaker told a press conference in Victoria he would call a federal-provincial conference immediately after taking office to iron out the details.

Mr. Diefenbaker accused the Liberals of "playing around" with the hydro issue, and promised his party would proceed in

Prime Minister Keeps Silence On Discussions

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet met for 2½ hours today and Prime Minister St. Laurent announced it will sit again this afternoon.

He told reporters he didn't know how long the afternoon session would last.

A reporter asked whether he knew who would represent Canada at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London June 26.

"I can't tell," Mr. St. Laurent replied.

As reporters' questioning persisted Mr. St. Laurent turned and replied:

"You know there are others just as interested as you are in what is being discussed in the present situation."

DOES NOT KNOW

He said he didn't know whether it would take his ministers as long to make up their minds as some reporters would. He did not elaborate.

As Mr. St. Laurent emerged from the morning session a battery of cameramen converged on him.

"Haven't you had enough pictures in the last few days?" he asked.

It was understood that the key question being discussed at the cabinet meeting was whether the Liberal administration should resign and when such a step should be taken.

As cabinet ministers filed out of the cabinet chamber Agriculture Minister Gardner smiled and remarked: "There's pretty near as big a gang here as we got votes."

MINISTERS APPLAUDED

As each of the ministers walked through the corridors of the East Block where the meeting took place, a knot of persons, apparently civil servants emerging from offices, gave them a round of applause.

The meeting started at 9 a.m. MDT. Mr. St. Laurent told reporters he did not anticipate making any statement after the meeting.

Some ministers who gathered early outside the cabinet chamber said they were frankly confused by what happened on Monday's election when John Diefenbaker's Conservatives smashed the Liberals' 22-year numerical superiority in the Commons.

LOOKS FOR JOB

Revenue Minister McCann, 70, said he didn't know what happened, but he is "looking for a job."

A doctor by profession, the former member for Renfrew South said he would not go back to medicine, "but I've got to make a living."

Trade Minister Howe, 71, said his political career has ended. A cabinet minister for 22 years, Continued on Page 2

Howe Quits Politics, Says 'Yes, I'm Happy'

BY HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe, defeated in Port Arthur, today announced the end of his political career.

"I'm a retired politician," the 71-year-old minister told reporters before entering a cabinet meeting.

"Are you happy?" a reporter asked.

"Yes, I'm happy," said Mr. Howe, beaten Monday by schoolteacher Douglas Fisher of the CCF. Mr. Howe had held Port Arthur riding for 22 years. He had been a member of the cabinet for all that time.

Mr. Howe has been chief lieutenant to Prime Minister St. Laurent, whose Liberal government was defeated in Monday's general election.

Born in Waltham, Mass., Mr. Howe came to Canada as a young engineer in 1908 and had amassed a fortune before he was 40.

He entered politics in 1935 and became the hard-driving commander of key government departments. He has been minister of railways and canals, marine, transport, munitions and supply, trade and commerce and defence production.

He was the central figure in the great parliamentary dispute last year over building of the trans-Canada natural gas pipeline.

His part in this dispute confirmed his reputation as one of the most controversial figures in Canada. Some of his phrases, like "what's a million?" and "who's to stop us?" became household expressions which his political opponents never ceased to turn against him.

Ottawa Switch Hits B.C. Hydro

BY PETER MURRAY

The confused picture surrounding future development of Columbia River hydro in B.C. has taken on a new complexion with the prospect of a federal Conservative government.

The offer of financial aid made in March by the St. Laurent administration presumably is not still in effect.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett never accepted the offer and nothing was put down in writing.

On the basis of their campaign pledges, the Conservatives are expected, however, to seek a

he was defeated in Port Arthur by CCFer Douglas Fisher.

Mines Minister Prudham, who announced his resignation before Monday's election, said the vote marked the end of Social Credit as a national party.

TWO-PARTY SYSTEM

"We're getting back to the two-party system and that's a mighty good thing. I think the Conservatives have gone a long way to establish themselves as a national party."

Resources Minister Lesage, re-elected, said he was "pretty well but broken" by Monday's results. The Conservatives got 110 seats in the 265-seat Commons; the Liberals 103; CCF 26; Social Credit 19.

CONCERNED ABOUT UNITY

He was concerned, he said, over what the vote will do to national unity.

CONFIDENT OF COMEBACK

Defence Minister Campbell, defeated in Vancouver Centre, said he was confident the Liberals would make a comeback. Something similar had developed in 1925-26 when former prime minister Mackenzie King, with a minority government, was defeated by the Conservatives in Parliament. The Conservatives took over for a year and in a general election that followed in 1926, Mr. King was returned to power for four years.

The question of a possible coalition with a minority party may arise at the meeting. However, Agriculture Minister Gardner said he never was in favor of coalition.

If the government resigns, Governor-General Massey may ask John Diefenbaker to form the next government in day or two. It would be the first Conservative government in 22 years.

SEE FALL ELECTION

As prime minister, Mr. Diefenbaker could either call an election on his own in the hope of increasing his party's strength or he could face Parliament until his minority government was forced to the polls by the combined numbers of opposition groups.

The Conservatives won 110 seats in the 265-seat Commons while the Liberals took 103, the CCF 26 and Social Credit 19.

land reclamation, should be paid for in a reasonable way so that the costs of the dams and maintenance will be provided for on a long-term basis."

These downstream benefits should be paid for in power, not cash.

(This is the same stand insisted upon by the Liberal administration).

"Under no circumstances should our heritage in hydro resources be alienated," Mr. Ladner said.

WILL CO-OPERATE

"The federal government should, and a Conservative government will, co-operate with the province to help in the financing without any conditions or strings other than those that are normally applicable to sound business practices in financing."

"A Conservative government will not aim to own these works. The Columbia River is not the property of the Dominion government, it belongs to British Columbia."

"Our party will join with the province of British Columbia in a policy of joint or other sound financing assistance in the normal businesslike way. We will co-operate, not dictate."

Mr. Ladner added that before the terms of financing between the two governments can be arrived at, results of the present engineering studies will have to be known.

BENNETT HELPED

One thing is sure—the imminent change of governments in Ottawa will allow Premier Bennett to save face.

He had been put on the spot by Fisheries Minister James Sinclair's announcement that his government was prepared to participate in construction of dams and generators on the Columbia if the province decided on public power development.

(Trade Minister C. D. Howe said later the government would also consider some form of financial aid if private industry was given the job of harnessing the Columbia).

Premier Bennett has never said whether he favors public or private power.

He replied to Mr. Sinclair that the provincial government would accept low-interest, long term loans or direct grants from Ottawa. Mr. Sinclair said the federal government would insist on some form of direct participation.

ONLY SPARRING

There has been no formal discussions on the federal offer; however, just election platform sparring.

It remains to be seen whether a Conservative government at Ottawa will be able to reach a sound agreement with B.C. on the matter, which is so vital to the province's future.

One stumbling block could be Premier Bennett's recent statement that he favors extension of the terms of the Kaiser Dam deal to the whole of the Columbia.

Under this arrangement the U.S. would build all the dams in B.C. in exchange for downstream benefits, and also send back 20 per cent of the additional power generated downstream.

The original proposal to allow the Kaiser Aluminum interests to build a storage dam on the Lower Arrow Lakes near Castlegar on the Columbia system, was blocked by passage of the International Rivers Bill, which gives the federal government control over all international waterways.

Today's was the third Kuwayati-Nasser meeting since the Syrian president arrived in Egypt Friday for a medical checkup at a hospital in Alexandria.

United Press correspondent Wilbur G. Landry reported from Cairo the two leaders were concerned over the effect of the crisis on the Arab "Nentalist bloc."

Yesterday in Damascus Syrian premier Sabri El Assali called for efforts to patch up the Egyptian-Jordanian rift and preserve Arab unity, but new Jordanian charges today heightened the split.

Kuwaity Meets Nasser On Diplomatic Crisis

By United Press

Syrian President Shukri El Kuwayati conferred today in Cairo with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser on the Egyptian-Jordanian diplomatic crisis that has shaken the Arab world.

Kuwaity flew to Cairo from a hospital in Alexandria for urgent talks a few hours after the Jordan government officially accused Egypt of plotting to assassinate members of the Jordanian royal family and government.

The meeting highlighted a series of Middle East developments including:

—Egypt closed the port of Suez today so minesweepers could remove any mines that might lie in the waterway. The Greek-owned tanker World Fury struck a mine in the harbor yesterday and received "slight" damages.

—Lebanon and Soviet relations chilled further with official Lebanese accusations that Russia had interfered in the

MODERN-DAY PILGRIMS LAND AT ROCK

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Mayflower II, replica of the original pilgrim ship, ended her long voyage from Plymouth, England, today.

She entered the harbor shortly after 9 a.m. MDT, towed by a U.S. Coast Guard craft and surrounded by a fleet of yachts and other small craft.

Skipper Alan Villiers had furled sails just outside the harbor before attempting the narrow channel up to the mooring basin prepared for Mayflower off historic Plymouth Rock.

Mayflower's arrival marked the end of a 5,000-mile, 54-day voyage re-enacting the historic trip of the pilgrims in 1620.

New French Cabinet Named

PARIS (Reuters) — France's new premier, Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, today presented his cabinet list to President Rene Coty for approval amid predictions that his reign in office will be short.

"A stopgap until the fall" was the phrase bandied about by deputies in the National Assembly late Wednesday night when the 42-year-old radical leader received a narrow majority in favor of his investiture.

The vote was 240 to 194, a majority of 46. It was the slimmest majority any premier-designate has received since the founding of the Fourth Republic in 1947.

The midnight ballot ended

The wartime resistance hero was accepted as premier.

By-Election Dates Still Undecided

Premier Bennett said today he has given "no thought" to the timing of three provincial by-elections that must be held this year.

"I think the people of B.C. have had enough elections for a while," he said.

The premier said he hasn't decided whether the three by-elections will be held at the same time in a "little provincial election."

One of them in Burnaby to fill the seat left vacant by the death last January of CCF'er Ernest Winch, must be held by September under provincial statute.

The other by-elections are in Cariboo and Delta.

Cariboo was made vacant by the death of Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd in April, and Delta by the resignation of Speaker Thomas Irwin to contest the federal election.

The Struggle of the Border

THE TROUBLE with this column job, of course, is that it is forcing me to educate myself. It's hard work, I can tell you. And expensive!

Take this Social Studies course, for instance.

It seemed such a good idea in September. "Only one lesson every Wednesday evening, and a government exam in June." I told my startled family. "I don't know any Canadian history because I missed it all by being sent to boarding school in England. And now, I feel so stupid on the paper. Why, some of the people down at the office have Canadian history almost running out of their ears."

"When do we eat?" asked my husband.

"Just a Junior Matrie course," I said, ignoring the plaintive plea. "The lowest rung on the educational ladder. If I can't scramble up to that one, they ought to take me out and shoot me."

That was in September. Now, in June, I can hear the tramp and rattle of the firing squad. For they're going to take me out and shoot me on June 21. By 11:30 a.m. on Friday week, I'll be just a little crumpled head. All 180 pounds of me!

And it's my own fault, darn it. I didn't do my homework. Half the time I never opened my books between lessons. I dodged the essays because they're so different from those I was trained to write that they nearly drove me nuts.

The memory work is quite appalling. I, who can't remember my grocery order without a scribbly little list, must somehow remember all these acts and facts and names and dates.

Ruth

Mind you, I wasn't really worrying until we had a practice exam about three weeks ago.

"What did you get?" asked the younger generation.

"Fifty-nine per cent," I whispered.

There was a curious silence.

"Well, I passed," said defiantly.

"Just passing isn't good enough," said a son to whom I've made this exact remark at least 100 times.

"This slaphappy attitude of just doing enough to get by," quoted another, shaking his head. "Can't think what you old people are coming to these days."

"Can't expect to get good marks if you never do your homework," quoted a third.

"Lowest rung on the educational ladder," they yelled in chorus, and laughed like crazy.

"Old 59 per cent," said my husband. "I must remember that."

So now I'm terrified and working. I have lists and notes scotch-taped up all over the house.

It's the Development of Canadian Autonomy by the bathroom mirror; the Main Causes of the Rebellion by the kitchen sink; Steps Toward Confederation by the stove; Boundary Disputes by the door down to the basement.

Yes, I'm struggling on the border line alright.

But I brought it on myself, I guess.

From now on you'll not catch me anywhere near any form of adult education.

I'm gonna stay dumb and be myself!

Lack of Acid in the Gastric Juice

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Dr. Alvarez

People write me much alarmed because a doctor has found that they have no hydrochloric acid in their gastric juice. Often in these cases, the mucous membrane of the stomach never did develop properly. Probably the person was born with a good lining to his stomach, and hence nothing can be done about the lack of juice. I know of no treatment that will bring back hydrochloric acid in the gastric juice. Some 40 years ago, I learned that thousands of persons can digest perfectly well with no acid in their stomach, and hence I quit giving some acid, and then I quit it if it doesn't stop the diarrhea in a few days. I quit because the giving of the acid can take off the enamel on the inner side of the upper central four teeth.

The only people whom we physicians worry about a bit are those whose lack of hydrochloric acid is associated with a familiar type of so-called primary anemia. It is an anemia not due to the oozing of blood from some body cavity.

Many a time, when a young woman has walked into my office with beautiful grey hair, I have asked immediately, "Who in your family had pernicious anemia?" And often the woman has answered, "My mother died of it." Sometimes the person complains of some tingling and numbness in her legs, and then she must keep taking, at intervals for the rest of her days, a tiny dose of vitamin B12.

If I had a poorly developed lining in my stomach and no hydrochloric acid, I would be particularly careful to have an X-ray examination made each year. Why? Because a thin, poorly developed stomach lining is more likely to grow a cancer than is a normal one.

Many persons, as they get past 45 or 55, lose their gastric acid, much as they lose their hair or their teeth. In such cases, I see little cause for anxiety, and rarely any need for efforts at treatment—unless the person has trouble maintaining his (or her) blood in good shape. Then he should have treatment with vitamin B12.

Thoughtful people write asking if, when a patient has been told he must have an immediate operation, it is permissible or ethical to ask for a consultation, or perhaps two or three of them. Of course, it is permissible and ethical, and often it is highly

ARGOS' NEW GRID LOOK INCLUDES MUSIC, GIRLS

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Argonauts of 1957 will feature football, music and girls.

After last year's losing Big Four Football Union season, the Argos promised drastic changes and they now have come up with plans for a drum majorettes corps and a permanent band for pre-game and half-time entertainment at home games.

The Argo music-makers, following the pattern set by the Montreal Alouettes' band, will feature acrobatic young females, selected for their beauty and with the baton.

In past years the Argos have had military bands playing at their home games. Last year, however, because of a dispute with the Toronto Musicians' Union there was no band entertainment. The Argos featured peewee football teams during the half-time instead.

Gil Will Settle For .304 Again

By FRED DOWD

BROOKLYN (UP)—Brooklyn's Gil Hodges wants it clearly understood with Stan Musial, Hank Aaron and company that winning the National League batting title "is the furthest thing from my mind."

The Dodgers' 33-year-old first baseman is the current league leader but he has no illusions that he'll be able to maintain his pace over the full season.

"I'm not that kind of a hitter," Hodges explained. "Besides, who am I to win a batting title while Musial is still in the league? He's something of a better hitter than I am—say about a hundred points."

Musial hasn't won a batting title since he capped the sixth of his career in 1952, but Hodges figures Stan is the favorite in a field that also includes Aaron, Willie Mays, Frank Robinson and perhaps Bill Virdon.

FAST START

"Musial's got a fast start this year and he still is the class hitter in this league," Gil ritter. "He's got a good cushion against a slump and he's the one guy who might go through the entire season without having a slump at all."

Hodges' own objective is considerably more modest than winning a batting championship.

"I'll settle to hit .300," he says. "My top average in the majors is .304 (in 1954) and, of course, I'd like to top that. But .300 on the nose will be enough to satisfy me."

SURPRISED

Over an 11-year-span, Hodges owns a .276 big league average and is known to the trade as a confirmed free swinger, who will drive in 100 runs; hit 30 or more homers and bat around .280. He was surprised to learn that he wouldn't be the first of that type hitter to win a batting title with an average 60 to 70 points over his career figure.

And Ennis, batting .353 in the Card curse, walloped his fourth home run in the streak, a three-run job that bagged it for good against Robin Roberts. Larry Jackson won his eighth.

NEAL HITS CLINCHERS

The Dodgers, who scored only four runs in the previous four games, had a 9-1 lead after two innings as wireless Gene Conley took his fourth defeat. Charlie Neal drove in the final four Brooklyn runs with a triple and doubled, scoring a run, while breaking the league record for consecutive games played set at 822 by Pittsburgh's Gus Suhm from 1931 to 1937.

And Ennis, batting .353 in the Card curse, walloped his fourth home run in the streak, a three-run job that bagged it for good against Robin Roberts. Larry Jackson won his eighth.

BENNETT ASKS OLD LOOK FOR GOVERNMENT HOUSE

If Premier Bennett has his way, Victoria's new Government House will look a lot like the old one.

The premier said at his press conference today that he wants the replacement to be "as near as possible to the original, especially on the inside."

Asked if orders to that effect had gone to the government architects who are drawing up the plans, Mr. Bennett replied with a twinkle:

"I've let my wishes be known."

SOLILOQUY FOR A SUMMER BACHELOR

Well, it's nice to have the house to myself . . . got the wife away a bit early this summer . . . kids, too, no matter, no noise . . . choose to have the radio off, I turn the radio off . . . choose to turn the TV off, I turn the TV off . . .

don't have to feed Large Dog or Small Cat . . . got the whole house to myself . . .

let's see now, first thing I'll do, I'll make myself a Martini . . . glasses all clean and polished . . . glasses?

I only need one . . . wonder why women make such a fuss about washing glasses . . . no trouble at all . . . let's have a look here . . . yes, there's the vermouth . . . lots of ice in the frige, I see . . . wonderful the way there's always ice in the frige . . .

for once, I can have a second Martini before dinner if I want to . . . nobody to yell at me "dinner's ready" . . . and I can read the paper in peace . . . Junior won't be at me to play catch with him . . .

hmm, sure is peaceful here, with the paper to read and a Martini at hand . . . lots of news in the paper what with the election and all . . . really fine, able to read the paper without her interrupting . . . not that I have anything against her but I like to read with nobody interrupting . . .

say, that's an interesting item . . . dear, did you see in the paper where . . . oh, almost forgot, she isn't here . . .

think I'll have that second Martini . . . but maybe I'd better finish the first, one first . . . first things first, I always say . . .

sure is peaceful around here. Nobody yelling at me "dinner's ready" . . . guess I'd better eat. One thing, I can take the paper to the table with me and there'll be nobody to complain . . .

speaking of eating, better feed Large Dog and Small Cat . . . no, I don't have to, they aren't here . . . sure is a break, not having to feed the dog or the cat . . .

sure is peaceful around here . . . wonder if I should have that second Martini . . . doesn't seem much point to it . . . think I'll cook myself a good dinner instead . . .

surveys prove men are better cooks than women . . . think I'll have a Spanish omelette . . . women can't cook Spanish omelettes the way men can . . .

hmm, where are the eggs? . . . there they are . . . do I need the deep fry pan or the shallow fry pan? . . . of course, I like pork and beans, too . . .

there's a can of pork and beans somewhere in this cupboard; I'm sure . . . where's the can-opener? . . .

sure is nice to have the house to myself . . .

sure is peaceful around here . . .

Government Seeks Formula For Pay Increase

Premier Bennett said today the government is looking for some "formula" by which it can constitutionally grant salary increases to civil servants this year.

This may have to take the form of a retroactive increase at the next legislature session in the spring of 1958, he said.

Mr. Bennett indicated the government was not considering calling a special session to grant increases.

TOBEY GIFT TO ART GALLERY

Four New Paintings To Be Shown Monday

Mark Tobey, the internationally-famous Seattle artist, has presented the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria with four new works for its permanent collection.

Chief among these gifts is a watercolor, "Ship in a Storm," by Lionel Feininger.

This artist, a German-American who died a few years ago in New York, is generally regarded as ranking among the first twenty painters of this century. His studies of architectural and marine scenes hang in most of the world's leading galleries.

A gouache abstraction by Georges Mathieu has also been given. Mathieu being one of the most important and controversial painters of post-war France. Works by two Americans of west-coast origin complete the gift. One is an oil by Guy Anderson, who with Tobey, Graves and Callaghan leads contemporary painting in the American northwest.

The other is an etching by George Appelbaum, a younger Seattle artist now living in New York.

These works will go on display Monday evening, when a reception limited to gallery members will be given to mark the opening of the exhibition of Mr. Tobey's own works, this being the first one-man exhibition of his painting to be held in Victoria.

Honor awards were won by the following scholastic leaders: Judith Baines, Jeannie Hodding, Dianne Ford, Margaret Cornfield, Donna Warder, Gordon Barefoot, Beverley Eldridge, Robert Walsh, Virginia Bauer, Sherri Smith, Marian Cory, John Forshaw, Lorraine Shipclark, Margaret Meubluk, Wayne Bobroske, Sandra Gardner, Erika Steinlechner, John Neilson, Sharon March and Gary Barbour.

Crests went to Andrew Miller, Marie Ray, Valerie Whittaker, Carroll Hunter, Judy Barton, Joan Phinn, Sheila Ryves, Joan Lucas, Cynthia Thompson and Carolyn Younger-Lewis.

Don't Forget Father — Sunday Is His Day

By PENNY SAVER

This Sunday is Father's Day, though dear old Dad somehow never manages to get the attention on his day that Mother gets on hers.

But I've found some gifts that will make Dad feel very much cherished, and may even encourage him to do a little extra lawn mowing or strawberry picking this weekend.

Here's one that's almost as much a present to the lady of the house — it'll cut hours out of her ironing time.

It's a white shirt of finest broadcloth, made in England, with a "drip dry" finish that's absolutely guaranteed to come up as crisp and smooth as new after every washing without even the touch of an iron.

Now, I know there are plenty of synthetic fabric shirts that require no ironing, but there's many a man who complains that they feel clammy in the summer because they don't absorb perspiration.

He'll like these especially at holiday time—just one will do him, and he can wash it out himself. Price is $7.95.

LEATHER LINKS

A set of leather cuff links and tie bar would look really smart with his tweed sports jacket. The links are in plain oval or oblong shapes with a border of gold tooling, and the sets come in lizard, pigskin or alligator. They're $3.95 and $5.

I also found an assortment of leather cases, nice for a man who does a lot of traveling.

There are zippered collar cases—which the clerk tells me are rather a difficult item to find—at $12.50, the cases with metal hangers for $6.50, and handkerchief cases for $3.95, all English-made.

Comfy-looking slippers that fold absolutely flat into their own zippered case, in pigskin-grained leather, are $7.95.

My number is 2-3131, if you'd like to know where to buy any of these items.

Family Night

James Bay Community Association will hold the annual Family Night Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Hall, corner Dallas Road and Pilot Street. Featured will be stalls of home cooking, aprons and needlework, superfluities, bingo and tombola, refreshments and door prize.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Bicycling Is Wonderful Exercise and Enjoyable

Summertime offers us excellent opportunity to build up our general health, and therefore to improve our looks. The time we spend in outdoor exercises, the relaxation which comes from close contact with nature, and the variety of fresh vegetables and fruits can give us a backlog of increased energy which will make the rest of the year much more successful and productive.

During recent years the value of bicycling as a mild form of exercise has been emphasized. Famous heart specialists have sung its praises. We know that exercise is important in attaining splendid physical condition and in prolonging the youthful portion of life.

However, many forms of exercise are too strenuous for the man or woman at middle age and later. Swimming, golf, walking and bicycling are four exercises which can be indulged in at any age if there is no abnormal condition and if they are indulged in with discretion.

Often physicians recommend these even when there has been some impairment of the heart or of some other organ. Naturally each case is different and you should follow your doctor's directions in such matters.

Riding a bicycle is not only wonderful exercise but you also can enjoy the beauty of the countryside or park nearby. It's a companionable exercise, too, when you go along with a friend or a member of the family. It provides a family group exercise which is wonderful.

Women write to know if this is a reducing exercise. It is reducing only generally, as any exercise is, in that it increases our output of energy. Other women wish to know if riding will build large calf muscles.

Louise Davis Answers: Is a hostess ever justified in bawling out late arrivals at a dinner party? Granting that she may have had a good cause, the punctual guests at one such party recently were made very uncomfortable when the hostess told a tardy couple exactly what she thought of them for holding up dinner.

Women write to know if this is a reducing exercise. It is reducing only generally, as any exercise is, in that it increases our output of energy. Other women wish to know if riding will build large calf muscles.

Louise Davis Answers:

The hostess was even ruder in bawling out the late guests than the guests were rude by being late. She defeated her own purpose. She was being what she thought was considerate in delaying dinner, then went to the other extreme by exploding. As hostess, she openly scolded the tardy pair, then made it worse by embarrassing and offending the other guests and could have spoilt the evening for everyone.

FINAL ★★ BULLETINS

Winch Pleads for Symes

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Harold Winch, re-elected CCF member of Parliament today demanded the execution date of Thomas Symes, 32, of Duncan, be set back to allow time for proper consideration of commutation by a new government.

Mr. Winch, in a letter to Remissions Director A. J. McLeod at Ottawa, urged that if the defeated Liberal cabinet does not take up the case, it should grant Symes commutation of the death penalty.

Bud Ward Early Leader in U.S. Open

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Marvin (Bud) Ward shot a par 70 at Inverness today and took the early lead in the rain-interrupted first round of the U.S. open golf championship.

Ward, of San Mateo, Calif., U.S. amateur champion in 1939 and 1941, had barely finished the first nine when a violent wind and rain storm delayed play for more than an hour.

St. Laurent Next Governor-General?

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram in a story from Ottawa says "speculation is growing here" that a Conservative government might offer present Prime Minister St. Laurent the governor-generalship of Canada.

The story, by staff reporter William Bragg, also says "political observers are speculating" that External Affairs Minister Pearson may abandon politics and accept a post as a university president.

Shots Stopped Wild-Driving Mountie

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP)—An RCMP constable was convicted today and fined $213 for careless driving after a municipal policeman testified it took five shots and a six-mile chase to stop the Mountie's car.

Constable David Whelan's licence was suspended for a year by Magistrate E. W. Kenrick. The 25-year-old Whelan has been an RCMP constable for three years.

Increase for Federal Civil Servants

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal administration has decided to increase civil service salaries, Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated today.

Mr. St. Laurent told reporters that his government does not believe the proposed increase is a "contentious" matter and that an "early announcement" will be made by Finance Minister Harris based on recommendations of the Civil Service Commission.

Wild Fight Breaks Out Between Yankees, Sox

CHICAGO (UP)—A fight broke out on the field today between the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox in the last half of the first inning of the ball game.

The entire benches of both clubs swarmed onto the field and a number of blows were exchanged.

White Sox first baseman Walt Dropo appeared to be in the centre of the fighting.

Time was called.

A second fight threatened to break out after the umpires had almost quieted the first outbreak.

An inquest will be held, police said, but the time and date have not yet been set.

CABINET

he was defeated in Port Arthur by CCFer Douglas Fisher.

Mines Minister Prudham, who announced his resignation before Monday's election, said the vote marked the end of Social Credit as a national party.

TWO-PARTY SYSTEM

"We're getting back to the two-party system and that's a mighty good thing. I think the Conservatives have gone a long way to establish themselves as a national party."

Resources Minister Lesage, re-elected, said he was "pretty well but broken" by Monday's results. The Conservatives got 110 seats in the 265-seat Commons; the Liberals 103; CCF 26; Social Credit 19.

CONCERNED ABOUT UNITY

He was concerned, he said, over what the vote will do to national unity.

CONFIDENT OF COMEBACK

Defence Minister Campine, defeated in Vancouver Centre, said he was confident the Liberals would make a comeback. Something similar had developed in 1925-26 when former prime minister Mackenzie King, with a minority government, was defeated by the Conservatives in Parliament. The Conservatives took over for a year and in a general election that followed in 1926, Mr. King was returned to power for four years.

The question of a possible coalition with a minority party may arise at the meeting. However, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said he never was in favor of coalition.

If the government resigns, Governor-General Massey may ask John Diefenbaker to form the next government in a day or two. It would be the first Conservative government in 22 years.

SEE FALL ELECTION

As prime minister, Mr. Diefenbaker could either call an election on his own in the hope of increasing his party's strength or he could face Parliament until his minority government was forced to the polls by the combined numbers of opposition groups.

The Conservatives won 110 seats in the 265-seat Commons while the Liberals took 103, the CCF 26 and Social Credit 19.

By-Election Dates Still Undecided

Premier Bennett said today he has given "no thought" to the timing of three provincial by-elections that must be held this year.

"I think the people of B.C. have had enough elections for a while," he said.

The premier said he hasn't decided whether the three by-elections will be held at the same time in a "little provincial election."

One of them in Burnaby to fill the seat left vacant by the death last January of CCFer Ernest Winch, must be held by September under provincial statute.

The other by-elections are in Cariboo and Delta.

Cairbo was made vacant by the death of Agriculture Minister Ralph Chaynd in April, and Delta by the resignation of Speaker Thomas Irwin to contest the federal election.

land reclamation, should be paid for in a reasonable way so that the costs of the dams and maintenance will be provided for on a long-term basis."

These downstream benefits should be paid for in power, not cash.

This is the same stand insisted upon by the Liberal administration.

"Under no circumstances should our heritage in hydro resources be alienated," Mr. Ladner said.

WILL CO-OPERATE

"The federal government should, and a Conservative government will, co-operate with the provinces to help in the financing without any conditions or strings other than those that are normally applicable to sound business practices in financing.

"A Conservative government will not aim to own these works. The Columbia River is not the property of the Dominion government, it belongs to British Columbia."

"Our party will join with the province of British Columbia in a policy of joint or other sound financing assistance in the normal businesslike way." We will co-operate, not dictate."

Mr. Ladner added that before the terms of financing between the two governments can be arrived at, results of the present engineering studies will have to be known.

BENNETT HELPED

One thing is sure—the imminent change of governments in Ottawa will allow Premier Bennett to save face.

He had been put on the spot by Fisheries Minister James Sinclair's announcement that his government was prepared to participate in construction of dams and generators on the Columbia if the province decided on public power development.

(Trade Minister C. D. Howe said later the government would also consider some form of financial aid if private industry was given the job of harnessing the Columbia).

Premier Bennett has never said whether he favors public or private power.

He replied to Mr. Sinclair

Malahat Repair Over This Year

The Malahat highway job will definitely be completed this year, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi said Wednesday.

Exact completion date has not been fixed but it will be some time in late fall, Mr. Gagliardi said.

The minister also announced that cars now will travel over the reconstructed section at the bottom of the Malahat instead of detouring over the Mill Bay cutoff. Only trucks used the new section.

The cutoff will be patched for motorists using the ferry, Mr. Gagliardi said.

MODERN-DAY PILGRIMS LAND AT ROCK

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—Mayflower II, replica of the original pilgrim ship, ended her long voyage from Plymouth, England, today.

She entered the harbor shortly after 9 a.m. EDT, towed by a U.S. Coast Guard craft and surrounded by a fleet of yachts and other small craft.

Skipper Alan Villiers had furled sails just outside the harbor before attempting the narrow channel up the mooring basin prepared for Mayflower off historic Plymouth Rock.

Mayflower's arrival marked the end of a 5,000-mile, 54-day voyage re-enacting the historic trip of the pilgrims in 1620.

Kuwatly Meets Nasser On Diplomatic Crisis

By United Press

Syrian President Shukri El Kuwatly conferred today in Cairo with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser on the Egyptian-Jordan diplomatic crisis that has shaken the Arab world.

Kuwatly flew to Cairo from a hospital in Alexandria for urgent talks a few hours after the Jordan government officially accused Egypt of plotting to assassinate members of the Jordanian royal family and government.

The meeting highlighted a series of Middle East developments including:

—Egypt closed the port of Suez today so minesweepers could remove many mines that might lie in the waterway. The Greek-owned tanker World Jury struck a mine in the harbor yesterday and received "slight" damages.

—Lebanon and Soviet relations chilled further with official Lebanese accusations that Russia had interfered in the Lebanon's internal affairs.

Jordan, in a move to improve relations with Britain, restored the right of British commercial planes to use the Amman airport.

Today was the third Kuwatly-Nasser meeting since the Syrian president arrived in Egypt Friday for a medical checkup at a hospital in Alexandria.

United Press correspondent Wilbur G. Landry reported from Cairo the two leaders were concerned over the effect of the crisis on the Arab "neutralist bloc."

Yesterday in Damascus Syrian premier Sabri El Assali called for efforts to patch up the Egyptian-Jordanian rift and preserve Arab unity, but new Jordanian charges today heightened the split.

NEARER STRIKE ACTION

PARIS (Reuters)—France's new premier, Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, today presented his cabinet list to President Rene Coty for approval amid predictions that his reign in office would be short.

"A stopgap until the fall" was the phrase bandied about by deputies in the National Assembly late Wednesday night when the 42-year-old radical leader received a narrow majority in favor of his investiture.

The vote was 240 to 194, a majority of 46. It was the slimmest majority any premier-designate has received since the founding of the Fourth Republic in 1947.

The midnight ballot ended France's 22-day crisis brought about by the resignation of Socialist Guy Mollet. Bourges-Maunoury is France's 23rd premier since the war.

The wartime resistance hero was accepted as premier.

promised in his investiture speech that France would have 18 months of austerity, along with total war in Algeria, if he were accepted as premier.

Torpedo Bombers Attack Deadly Enemy of Hemlock

BUSY, BUSY, BUSY . . .

Although small, budworm in his countless billions can raze a whole forest. Picture illustrates manner in which it hatches in young green shoots of hemlock, then feeds ravenously until it changes from caterpillar to moth.

EDITORIAL

ever, that he had been trying to effect a reconciliation with his wife and son and must, therefore, have cared deeply for them.

* * *

All this, of course, is evidential history. But the fact remains that Symes has only 12 days left to live. His only hope for commutation of the sentence rests with the Minister of Justice at Ottawa.

And here a new element enters the case. Mr. Justice Garson—Symes' "court of last resort" for executive clemency—has been defeated in this week's election, and therefore has no authority at all to act.

With this in mind, The Times urges the authorities, both provincial and federal, to order a stay of execution until a new Minister of Justice can have an opportunity to review the case.

It would be a dreadful thing if, during the confusion and uncertainty resulting from the election, and the appointment of a new Cabinet, Symes' last appeal went into the "limbo" and was never heard.

The clock is ticking inexorably towards June 25.

... QUEEN

husband, Prince Philip, as Colonel of the Welsh Guards, and her uncle, the Duke of Gloucester, also as Colonel. Both were in full guardsmen's regalia and wore the tall bearskin hats. Both wore the Garter ribbon.

Prince Charles and Princess Anne watched entranced from their vantage point as their mother carried out her part of the ceremony with dignity and precision.

IRISH TUNES

A massed guardsmen's band of 250 ran through a sprightly selection of Irish tunes while the Queen guided her mount along the lines of guardsmen during the inspection.

The trooping of the colors came next.

Hours before the colorful ceremony, thousands of persons crowded the sidewalks outside of Buckingham Palace along the Mall to the Admiralty Arch and the Horse Guards parade grounds. Many were there before dawn, carrying huge picnics.

It was a glorious summer day. The temperature was in the 70s and the skies cloudless.

The Queen actually turned 31 last April 21. But June is the month of good weather in London, so officially every ruler's birthday falls in June.

The splendid ritual of the "trooping of the colors" has been the same for centuries. The Queen reviewed the heavily-hatted troops of her brigade of Guards who then paid obeisance to the flag. The ceremony stems from the days of old when British troops rallied before their flags before going into battle.

Commonwealth Meet to Go On

LONDON (CP) — Official sources said today there is little chance of the forthcoming conference of Commonwealth prime ministers being postponed.

They were commenting on a suggestion in The Times proposing a postponement because Commonwealth prestige may be reduced if a number of prime ministers are unable to attend the conference, which opens June 26.

War on Speeders Ordered in B.C.

Police all over the province have declared war on speeders for the remainder of June in an effort to "cut the appalling highway toll."

George Lindsay, superintendent of Motor Vehicles, said today the Provincial Motor Licence Branch will back them in their campaign by suspending the licence of convicted motorists.

Youbou Logger Killed by Tree

DUNCAN (CP) — Einar Lundeberg, a logger employed by British Columbia Forest Products, was killed Wednesday morning while working at a BCFP operation at Meade Creek.

Lundeberg, about 45, was working with his brother and a third man, felling trees on a right-of-way. The tree they were felling split partway up, springing back, and the broken tree came down on top of a log under which Lundeberg had dived for shelter. He suffered a fractured neck.

Coroner J. H. Boyd of Lake Cowichan held a preliminary inquiry at the Meade Creek camp first-aid room, where the body was taken. He swore in a jury from among fellow workers of the dead man, then the inquest was adjourned until next Wednesday at Lake Cowichan.

Lundeberg, who leaves a wife and grown family, lived at Youbou.

Duncan-Cowichan Merchants Discuss Summer Store Hours

DUNCAN—Retail division of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce has called a special meeting for Monday night to discuss fully the matter of retail store hours during July and August, and the half-day or whole-day store closing in the week during the other 10 months of the year.

A previous meeting voted 15 to 5 in favor of a six-day shopping week during July and August, abandoning Thursday half-day closing during the two summer months. "Whatever we decide," said Charles Beadnell, retail division chairman, "we will have to petition the city council for a by-law to implement our decision."

New Name Urged for Street of Many Names

NANAIMO—The city's main thoroughfare, which has four names in a distance of one-half mile, should be renamed, according to Al Erskine, chairman of the Kiwanis public and business affairs committee.

Starting as Victoria Crescent, it becomes Commercial Street, Church Street, and finally Front Street.

Courtenay IWA Rejects Award

COURTENAY, B.C. (CP)—
Local 1-363 of the International Woodworkers of America voted by a 95 per cent majority to reject a conciliation board award on deadlocked wage negotiations, union officials said Wednesday. Strike action to obtain the union's original contract requests also was endorsed unanimously.

The conciliation board favored a wage-discussion truce until September, which the operators accepted. The operators also have asked for a government-supervised secret ballot if an official strike vote is to be taken.

The IWA is asking for a 20-per-cent wage increase, union shop and other benefits which the operators have rejected.

William Granoukos, Courtenay IWA president, said: "The economics of the logger are simple. His cost of living is rising and other types of wage earners are receiving increases."

The IWA is asking for a 20-per-cent wage increase, union shop and other benefits which the operators have rejected.
